"SLUSH FUND" FOR FIREMEN

JOYCE TELLS WHAT THE 12TH THINKS OF THE MAYOR TODAY

Thomas J. Joyce spoke at Andrew Square, Ward 16, last night. He made some interesting remarks concerning Mayor Curley. He said:

"The Mayor of Boston ought not to be an issue in a campaign for the election of member of Congress, but when he secretly connives at the success of one of the candidates, he makes himself an issue. But I am one who does not regret Mr. Curley's participation in this Congressional campaign. It is a very good opportunity to let him understand how well he is regarded in this district today. The people of the Twelfth Congressional district do not and never have had any use for a turncoat.

EXTRAORDINARY SPECTACLE.

"They see an extraordinary spectacle in Mr. Curley's performances since his election. They see a man with a variegated past, a professional politician for fourteen years, who has never been able to earn in private life in competition with his fellowmen any more than a few dollars a week, whose pictures as a student of the telephone company I have in my possession, and by a student I mean a man who received pay for a mere bluff at working for the public service corporations; they see such a man discharging girls who received from $1 to $9 a week for useful service to the city, and reducing the pay of matrons below a living wage. We see a man who for years has collected fifty cents a month from the city laborers in his ward, and who declared recently in the Board of Aldermen that they ought to have a vacation, now after he has used them to the limit, throw off his mask of hypocrisy and openly oppose a two weeks' vacation for them.

DREW TWO SALARIES.

"As a member of the Board of Aldermen he received $20 a week salary. When he was elected to Congress he received $150 a week; yet he was not satisfied with $150 a week, and he deliberately kept the other $50 a week for more than a year which he was receiving from the people of Boston.

"When he was elected Mayor he was not satisfied with the $3000 a week which the Mayor receives in salary, but attempted to keep the $150 a week also which he was receiving as Congressman, and he would be getting these two salaries today if his colleagues in Congress had not started proceedings to throw him out of Congress.

"This is the man running around in a new limousine which will cost the people of Boston not less than $5,000 a year, who is complaining of high salaries and who is causing men to go out with pick and shovel who are not used to the work.

"The use of his limousine would pay the salaries of all the girls he has discharged in the different gymnasiums.

SOCIAL AMBITION NOW.

"The difference between Mr. John A. Sullivan's salary in the Finance Commission, which he was mighty glad to receive, and his salary at the head of the law department would pay several times over the difference in the wages of the matrons whose pay has been reduced. If these two men were honest, they would let [illegible] Mr. Curley is not used to automobiles and Mr. Sullivan is not used to a $9,000 a year salary. They could both of them dispense with these extras very readily and save the city this large sum of money.

"Why is Mr. Curley a turncoat? Nobody who knows his record believes that he is doing his duty as he sees it. Why then has he turned his back upon everything that brought him the support of men who foolishly believed him to be sincere in the years past? Why has he locked arms with a man whom he has recently called vile names? Why is he quitting the ward that made him as soon as he has risen as high as he knows he can go? Why is he doing the things that a majority of the people of Boston foolishly believed Mr. Kenny might do and therefore defeated him?

"I will tell you why. Don't smile when you hear my reason, for it is the best that has been given yet by his former friends who stand amazed at his conduct.

"MY REASON IS THAT HE WANTS TO BREAK INTO SOCIETY. Think it over.

"If elected, I shall oppose by every means vested in me the scheme to tax American ships passing through the Panama Canal. This matter is part of our party platform. I will also support and vote for every measure founded on the platform and adopted at the Baltimore convention."

Curley May Live in Bartlett Mansion

Mayor James M. Curley is planning, according to report today, deserting the "Pro Bono Publico" vicinity and removing to Dorchester, where both of his predecessors, Fitzgerald and Hibbard, resided. Curley is said to have priced the General Bartlett mansion at No. 39 Melville avenue.

"Go to It," Feeney Cables Gallivan

Street Commissioner James A. Gallivan, who campaigned in South Boston today in his fight for Mayor Curley's seat in Congress, has received a cablegram from John F. Feeney—who is in Venice—which reads: "Go to it, old boy. They can't beat you." Gallivan speaks tonight in the new Municipal Building on Broadway, South Boston; in Neponset and in Codman square. Tomorrow he will speak at the Columbia Yacht Club at City Point.

Kissing Census at Harvard Table

Sixteen Harvard College sophomores, who eat at one of the Memorial Hall tables, took a "kissing census" today, with the following results:

Ten claim they have never kissed any girl except sister or cousin.

Five admit having kissed outside the family.

One refuses to answer.

All these youths are prominent in other college activities.

Murphy Out, Says Gallivan Can Win

John J. Murphy today announced his withdrawal from the fight for the Congressional nomination in the Twelfth District. "I am one of those who believe that South Boston is entitled to the next Congressman," he said. "And the man who has the call is James A. Gallivan. I believe he is the man best qualified to give the entire district fitting representation."

$25,000 PRIZES

$400 FOR FAVOR TO FIREMEN

Sensational testimony of a "slush fund" in the Russell Club of the Boston Fire Department marked the climax of today's hearing before the Finance Commission in the investigation of the police and fire salary increases.

It came out that this "slush fund"—consisting of a mysterious $400—was to be paid to somebody for securing an extra fifteen minutes for dinner for the firemen.

Lieutenant Charles A. Donahue, who was president of the club at the time, refused to approve an order for this "slush fund."

"Because I could not find out to whom it was to be paid," he gave as his reason for his refusal to approve the payment.

The fund incident burst like a bombshell over the firemen and other spectators at the hearing. It was the first intimation of such a fund, and it came up in the testimony of Patrick Burke, the secretary of the club in 1913.

He testified that he received a letter signed "P. J. Darmody." He said it requested that $400 be paid to "Patrick L. Crowley."

When asked by Attorney Sughrue what he understood the money was for, he said he did not know, but he heard some mention made of "an hour and a quarter," which he supposed was for dinner.

"I thought that money was to be paid somebody for getting this extra time," he said.

PAYMENT HELD UP.

Lieutenant Donohue, former president of the Russell Club, said that his impression was that the $400 was to be paid to "Patrick L. Crowley."

Q.—Was it paid? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Why? A.—I did not approve of it.

Q.—Why? A.—I did not know just to whom it was to be paid in the end.

Q.—Did you make any inquiries about it? A.—I asked Crowley.

Q.—What did he tell you? A.—He would not tell me to whom it was to be paid.

Q.—Did you understand why it was to be paid? A.—It was my impression that it was to be paid to somebody who would use their influence in getting more time for us.

Q.—Did you receive another letter about this asking that the money be paid? A.—No, sir, I did not.

Q.—Did you make any other inquiries to find out just what this money was for and to whom it was going? A.—I did, but I couldn't find out, and that is the reason why I did not approve it.

The records of the Russell Club were introduced here as evidence, in these were references to the letter received by Burke. The original letter was then introduced.

Drapers Lose $40,000 by Roundhouse Fire

MILFORD, March 14.—The roundhouse of the Grafton & Upton Railroad, the private shipping line of the Draper Company of Hopedale, was destroyed by fire today. Two locomotives, one a new Baldwin type, were burned. Sparks from a locomotive are said to have been the cause of the fire. The loss is estimated at $40,000.

BACONS BUY OUT SIEGEL

The stock, fixtures and stable equipment of the Henry Siegel store in Boston were today sold to W. & A. Bacon, and the buyers will keep the store open. It was announced after a hearing before Referee Olmstead in the United States Bankruptcy Court.

The William Filene Sons Company, who had bid 51 per cent. of the net cost, wrote that they would withdraw in favor of a bidder who would keep the store open, if the new bid exceeded theirs. Mayor Curley was in telephone conversation with Mr. Olmstead shortly before the hearing. The Bacon bid was 51 per cent. and $1,000 bonus on the stock, $20,000 for the horses, wagons and automobiles, and $10,000 for such fixtures as the Siegel company owns. John T. Connor was present at the hearing and is thought to be behind the purchase.

It was announced that the assets of the Boston store would realize for about $650,000; against liabilities of over $1,000,000. These liabilities do not include claims against the Boston stores by other Siegel stores. Nor does this affect the bank, which was under New York management. District Attorney Pelletier is called upon to investigate the conduct of the bank's affairs by employes who lost their savings when it failed.

For full details of the Siegel failure, and how the Siegel stores were bankrupted, see Page 7.

Walsh to Maintain Bi-Partisan Board

Governor Walsh today, announcing the resignation of Chairman John N. Cole of the Commission on Economy and Efficiency, said:

"In appointing his successor, I will name someone other than a Democrat." This is in accord with the Governor's policy of keeping State boards bi-partisan. The other two members of the board, Francis X. Tyrrell and Frank H. Pope, the State Auditor, are Democrats.

GLADYS C. HARPER, Waltham nurse, whose strange disappearance has led to rumors of foul play.

SAVE FIREMEN TRAPPED IN FIRE ON SUMMER ST

Five members of the crew of Engine 25 nearly lost their lives fighting a fire which burned out the offices and shipping room of the National Cash Register Company at No. 112 Summer street and caused $5,000 damage early today.

They were stretched at full length on the first floor directing a stream of water into the basement when the line burst in the street and left them helpless. The men were surrounded by flames when rescued.

Firemen broke in two large windows just in time to prevent a hot air explosion that might have sent the flames through the entire building.

A clever and daring bit of fire fighting strategy on the part of Deputy Chief Tabor and District Chief Sennott averted a serious explosion and probably saved the whole building from falling prey to the flames.

Tabor and Sennott, with the crew of Engines 25 and 26, were in Federal court at the rear. Each of the companies carried a line of hose. Through the heavy plate glass windows they could see the flame. A fireman with a rake was stationed at each of the windows.

As the flames reached the rear wall the command was given. Both windows bulged with the heat and then went crashing in as the rakes shattered them into a thousand pieces. At the same time two streams of water shot through the openings and the danger of an explosion had passed.

A few minutes later they gained a footing inside and Engine 25's men were trapped. The dense smoke and the peculiar construction of the building handicapped the firemen, who were forced to work in relays to escape being overcome.

Leechburg, Pa., $100,000 Fire.

LEECHBURG, Pa., March 14.—The new grand opera house and adjoining buildings were destroyed by fire today. The loss was $100,000.

WALTHAM GIRL IS MISSING; BODY MAY BE IN THE CHARLES

Miss Gladys C. Harper, a trained nurse, has been missing since last Monday from her home in Waltham. Fear is felt that she was the victim of a man who was seen shortly after midnight Wednesday hurling a long, dark object, about the size and shape of a human body, from the Prospect street bridge in Waltham into the ice-bordered channel of the Charles river.

MOTHER FEARS WORST HAS HAPPENED.

Mrs. Anna I. Harper, the girl's mother, said today:

"I fear Gladys may be the victim of that man on the bridge. She may have been waylaid. Our house is only 200 yards from the bridge and the street along here is dark. I fear the worst."

Gladys C. Harper is seventeen years old, a brunette, of splendid health, well-rounded figure and comely appearance. She has been nursing for Waltham physicians since her graduation from Malden Hospital six years ago.

Last Monday morning she went in Boston shopping and visited several stores as shown by the delivery of her purchases at the Harper home at No. 82 Prospect street that evening. The girl never came home.

Mrs. Harper reported the case to the Waltham police Wednesday and has searched in hospitals and other places since.

DROPPED BUNDLE INTO RIVER.

Today's fact developed which was given little attention by the public at the time. Night Watchman Everett of the Waltham Watch Company's plant saw a man on the Prospect street bridge shortly after midnight Wednesday with what looked like a big bundle. Everett heard a splash, then saw the man run across to the downstream side of the bridge, peer over the railing, then stride away, as fast as he could walk without running. Thinking a body might have been hurled into the channel, Everett telephoned Captain McKenna of the Waltham police.

An [illegible] came down, but found nothing. The next day, however, the Metropolitan Park police at Riverside were notified. They grappled along the banks of the river and from a boat in the channel as far up and down as the ice would let them.

The grappling was done by Sergeant Chaisson and Patrolmen [illegible].

Held for Throwing Boy Out of Window

Accused of hurling her six-year-old boy, George, from a window, Mrs. Mary Urick, thirty, of Newman street, South Boston, was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury in South Boston court. The boy's leg was broken. Miss Maude Smith said she saw the mother throw the boy from a window ten feet from the ground. "She threw two pails of water after the child's body," testified Miss Smith.

EXACT TEXT OF PAGE'S SPEECH WORSE THAN WAS FIRST REPORTED

Ambassador Page's Speech

(Official Report)

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, March 13.—The following is the verbatim report of Ambassador Page's speech at the Chambers of Commerce in London. It is by the official stenographer of the London Chamber of Commerce—the only stenographer present—who furnishes this transcript for the Boston American. The applause or laughter is in the official stenographer's notes. Ambassador Page said, after a few purely introductory remarks:

"I heartily enter into your applause of what several gentlemen said, notably the Prime Minister, when he spoke of your concern for the men that work with you and work under you and for your ready applause for plans to train those whose misfortunes make them a burden upon the state.

"That strikes a sympathetic note also in our great commercial interests and aims in the United States.

PURPOSE OF PANAMA CANAL.

"I will not say that we have constructed the Panama Canal for you (laughter), for I am speaking with great frankness and not with what is sometimes called diplomatic indirection (laughter), but I will say most truly that it adds greatly to the pleasure of building that great work that IT IS YOU WHO WILL MOST PROFIT BY IT. (Applause.)

"I can say a similar thing about the recent lowering of our tariff. We did not lower it in order to please you (laughter); it was for purposes that we considered economically sound for ourselves. (Cheers.) Nevertheless, IT ADDED TO THE PLEASURE OF DOING THAT TO REFLECT THAT THEREBY WE SHOULD RECEIVE MORE TRADE FROM YOU. (Cheers.)

EXPLAINS WILSON'S MESSAGE.

"Concerning the recent message of the President, I can say somewhat more—I take it upon myself, on my own responsibility, to say more. He told you that not merely to please you, but to express the true sentiment and the self-respect of the American nation, of every true American. (Cheers.)

"His was the voice of the people. Nevertheless, it adds to the pleasure of hearing that voice to know that it does please you.

"May I put in another parenthesis, also on my own account, and correct an impression that a part of your press seems to have about the attitude of the United States government concerning the investment of your colossal earnings in States of Central America that have volcanic tendencies? (Laughter.)

WELCOMES FOREIGN CAPITAL.

"I sometimes read that the United States is entering upon a policy to discourage foreign investments. That is untrue. I think that some events are happening there which discourage them somewhat, but I hope that they will not be charged to the United States.

"There is a policy forming in the minds of our government and of our people, which is not new, that would discourage such investments or such concessions as would carry with them the control of the government of any of those States, and only that (Hear, hear), only that, if you please, for so far as the United States is concerned you know how heartily we have welcomed your investments there, and still welcome them, and always will.

DEFINES MONROE DOCTRINE.

"You may be assured that it is not the business of the United States to put any let or hindrance upon any investments of yours anywhere in the world, and it will most heartily welcome your investments in any part of America, provided only you do not make them so that you may take the country with them. (Laughter.)

"The Monroe Doctrine, you know, meant only this: That the United States WOULD PREFER that no European government should gain more land in the New World." (Applause.)

THORNTON CLUB BARS DEPUTIES IN GAMING RAID

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 14.—Sheriff Wilcox went to the Attorney-General of Rhode Island today as a result of a raid on the Rhode Island Athletic Club in Thornton, when doors were locked and the deputy sheriffs were told that they could not enter the premises.

Sheriff Wilcox was told that there was gambling going on at the club house in Thornton, and last night he sent Deputy Sheriffs Thomas Dyer and Perdy Butterfield there to make a raid. The club house is located over a saloon conducted by John Murphy. The sheriff said today that when his deputies entered the saloon a signal was given and all doors leading to the rooms above were locked. When the deputies demanded in the name of the law that they be allowed to enter they were defied and told that they could not do so without a search warrant.

Lodge Protests at Jap Mexico Colony

"The Secretary of State, in my opinion, has made a serious mistake in permitting himself to be committed on an issue so serious as this."

U. S. EXPRESS TO QUIT; 15,000 TO LOSE JOBS

NEW YORK, March 14.—Immediate plans for the dissolution of the United States Express Company and the liquidation of its assets will be made by the committee of directors chosen for that purpose, it was announced today. President D. I. Roberts stated that it would take several months to wind up the concern's affairs. In the meantime its business will be conducted without change while arrangements are being made to abrogate various contracts or to dispose of them to other companies.

Nearly 15,000 employes will be thrown out of work when the dissolution is completed unless they are engaged by the companies that will profit by the retirement of the United States Express. The annual payroll of the company is said to be in the neighborhood of $6,000,000. One thousand five hundred and fifty-six shareholders, of whom 740 are women, will share in the distribution of the company's assets.

Though President Roberts declared that the parcel post and the compulsory express rates were responsible for the action taken by the company, it is not believed that the other express companies will retire from business.

REPORT LOSS OF MEXICAN SHIP BY MUTINY

VERA CRUZ, Mex., March 14.—Reports that the crew of the Mexican gunboat Vera Cruz had mutinied at Tampico, killed their officers and joined the Constitutionalists were circulated here today. The rumors were denied by Mexican government officials.

The crew of the Vera Cruz numbers 100 men. The vessel carries two four-inch guns and six six-pounders.

CHINDA CHARGES BRYAN OPENED UP MEXICO TO THE JAPS

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Baron Chinda announced today that Secretary Bryan has established a precedent that will open wide the door for Japanese colonization in Mexico. This is in direct contradiction to the Monroe Doctrine. It gives Japan her first foothold on the American continent.

Secretary Bryan sanctioned the Japanese colonization scheme by giving fifty colonists permission to traverse American territory in going from Tampico to Calexico. He gave his approval to the plan for the purpose of protecting the Japanese from lawless Mexicans upon the representations of Ambassador Chinda.

Ambassador Chinda was asked by the AMERICAN: "Do you think that a larger colony than now exists will be established in Mexico?"

"The Japanese who are going there from Juarez," he replied, "have been driven there because they could not bear the Mexican lawlessness. Undoubtedly there will be a few Japanese who will ask to leave the zones where their lives and property are endangered."

"In that case, would the present action of Secretary Bryan be regarded as an authoritative precedent?" was asked.

"It unquestionably would," replied the ambassador.

Although the Japanese colonists on their way to Calexico assert they are laborers paying their own way, the Japanese embassy today stated that the party is "well supplied with money."

A high official at the embassy indignantly denied that the entire band would be employed in Calexico as "cotton pickers," and said that many of the colonists hoped to hold land in their own right. Much of this land, it was stated, has already been purchased.

A report from Laredo, Texas, states that Monterey, the largest city in northeast Mexico, virtually is isolated, and Constitutionalist troops are advancing from all sides.

TO FIGHT HUERTA'S CLAIMS FOR MEXICAN REFUGEES IN TEXAS

WASHINGTON, March 14. — The United States government will resist the efforts set on foot by representatives of President Huerta to secure the release of 3,600 Mexican soldiers held prisoners at Fort Bliss, Texas, since the flight from Ojinaga across the international border. The case is likely to prove the greatest problem that the administration has had to deal with in connection with the Mexican situation.

Three departments, State, war and Justice, are involved in the conflict that will develop as soon as court writs are filed for the release of the interned men. Efforts are being made today to find some precedent to be followed, but officials of the department of justice admitted that they know of no similar case in the history of this government.

SAYS U. S. CITIZENS ARE FORCED TO SERVE IN HUERTA'S ARMY

MEXICO CITY, March 14.—That American citizens are being arrested in Mexico and forced to join the army of President Huerta was revealed today by Jean Joandee, who had just been released after being held captive for several months. His statement to this effect was confirmed by United States Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy, who said he knew of at least twenty-five cases of this nature. In no case, however, added Mr. O'Shaughnessy had the Mexican government refused to free the United States citizens when demand for such action was made.

FEAR WALTHAM NURSE VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

Coombs and Dwyer. Sergeant Chaisson said, when the search was abandoned on Wednesday, that, if this bundle was weighted it might have been caught by the grapples from where it sank in the channel, but, if it was not weighted, it probably would be carried under the ice. He expressed doubt whether it could be recovered until the river ice goes out.

This was before the disappearance of Miss Harper had been reported. The announcement of the girl's unexplained absence from home gives a hideous significance to the mystery of the man and the bundle on the bridge at night.

Gladys C. Harper, born in Waltham and graduate of the high school there, returned home to do nursing after her hospital training. She was known to the majority of physicians in the city and was highly esteemed as a nurse.

Her mother said today that the girl had a sweetheart, an out-of-town man, who has been helping the police in the first inquiry. Mrs. Harper refused, however, to give the name of her daughter's sweetheart.

HAD MONEY WITH HER.

When the girl left home last Monday she took her silver mesh bag, containing $40, but her mother says that she habitually carried her money with her. When the girl did not return that night the mother thought that she had received such a sudden call to a nursing engagement that she had not time even to telephone home.

"Gladys never was away from home long without letting me know," said Mrs. Harper. "I did not do anything about her absence on Tuesday, though I wondered. But on Wednesday I began calling up the Boston hospitals, thinking Gladys might have suffered an accident. I learned nothing from the hospitals.

"Then I notified the Waltham police. They told the Boston police, but no public report was made of the case until today. I felt that Gladys must have been the victim of foul play—probably that she had been lured away somewhere. It might be easy to get a nurse into a strange place on account of her work."

Miss Harper's father is dead. The family consists of Mrs. Harper, Gladys and a younger sister.

A description of Gladys, when she left home, is as follows:

Age—Twenty-seven years.
Height—Five feet three inches.
Weight—136 pounds.
Complexion—Dark.
Hair—Dark brown.
Eyes—Dark brown.
Coat and muff—Black fur.
Dress—Blue.
Hat—Black, with black plumes.
Shoes and stockings—Black.
Jewelry—Gold neck chain, with gold locket.

She carried a silver mesh bag containing $40.

Pickpocket's Mother Women for Pulpit Defy "13 Hoodoo"

Members of the New York "Thirteen Club" held their "Last dinner" on Friday, March 13. The sixty-five diners were divided into thirteen at various tables. To prove they were not superstitious all sat under opened umbrellas.

The "Pickpocket Tryst" of New York employs an aged woman as a professional "mother" to win the pity of women complainants and free them away from court, according to the local police.

Dissatisfied with man-conducted churches, Liverpool, England, suffragettes have started a scheme to organize a women's church. All the preachers will be women.

"Who is President?" asked the court in Yonkers, N. Y. "Bill Sulzer," replied John Cuozzo. His naturalization papers will be delayed three months.

Peter Carroll, Williamsburg, N. Y., failed to remove shoes on reaching home early yesterday. Wife awoke and hit him over the head with a stovelifter.

AGREEMENT IS NEAR IN NEW HAVEN TANGLE

WASHINGTON, March 14.—That the deadlock between the government and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad in the negotiations for the separation of the railroad system and its subsidiaries will soon be terminated and that a complete agreement will be reached was the optimistic prediction made by an official of the railroad today when the conferences were resumed at the Department of Justice.

It was intimated that the clash over the plans for the separation of the Boston & Maine and the New Haven had been ended and that the personnel of the board of trustees that will look after the New Haven's stock interests in its subsidiary had been decided upon. Two of the five members of the board, it was understood, will be ex-Chief Justice Knowlton of the Massachusetts Superior Court and ex-City Solicitor Doherty of Springfield, Mass.

Howard Elliott, chairman of the New Haven's board of directors, reached the Department of Justice early with the road's counsel, Moorfield Storey and Walter E. Hinds. Neither Mr. Elliott nor his attorneys would discuss the government's latest demand that the road surrender control of wharfage properties and water front possessions in New England, but it is understood that they brought with them to the department evidence to show that it does not possess a monopoly of the water commerce of Southern New England.

SCORES TOLLS REPEAL AS 'ACT OF COWARDICE'

WASHINGTON, March 14.—That it would be "an act of national cowardice" to comply with Great Britain's demand to repeal the Panama Canal tolls exemption for American ships, and that President Wilson's stand for the repeal is a "pusillanimous doctrine," were the declarations today of Representative Joseph R. Rowland, Republican, of California, in a minority report on the Sims resolution, filed in the House.

Knowland made an emphatic protest against this "surrender" to the British Foreign Office, and quoted from Presidents Pierce, Buchanan, Hayes, Grant, Arthur, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft to show that a vigorous American policy with relation to canal control is a tradition with the United States government. Roundly criticised "this new peace at any price policy."

"I vigorously protest against the attempt to force the Congress of the United States through a legislative sentiment to give a British interpretation to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, thus surrendering for all future time rights vitally affecting this nation commercially, strategically and politically," said the report.

"To acquiesce now in the demands of Great Britain, after this government, speaking through a former Secretary of State, has upheld the American position, would be nothing less than an act of national cowardice. Thousands of patriotic American citizens protest that we cannot maintain our national honor in the present controversy if we abjectly surrender our American right at Panama."

Rowland charges that the Canadian transcontinental railroads signed the British protest against the tolls.

LOSES LEGS IN DEATH JUMP UNDER TRAIN

A young man, giving the name of Edward Bennett of Campello, attempted suicide by jumping in front of a train at School street crossing of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad at Braintree at 6:30 today. With both legs severed between knee and thigh he was hurried to a Boston Hospital on the first inbound train. The physician who attended him at Braintree depot said he had a chance for life.

At 6 o'clock Peter Donahue, gatetender, noticed this youth walking along the track. He would stop, look about, walk along, stop again and act oddly.

Finally he came toward the crossing as the local from Boston to Braintree came down the out-bound track. He stood near the track. Just as the engine came abreast of him the young man gave a yell that was heard above the roar of the train. He jumped, feet first, in front of the engine. His legless body was thrown against an adjoining freight train. The train was stopped in its own length.

In spite of his injuries the young man retained consciousness enough to give his name.

MRS. PANKHURST WINS HER 7TH HUNGER STRIKE

LONDON, March 14.—For the seventh time Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, head of the Women's Social and Political Union, the organization of the militant suffragettes, won a hunger strike victory over the British government when she was released from Holloway Jail because of illness.

Mrs. Pankhurst was placed in Holloway Jail Tuesday afternoon and since that time had refused to touch food or water. Her heart, weak from previous privations in jail, became affected and a physician attached to the home office staff ordered her release.

When the militant leader was taken from jail she was haggard and so weak she could hardly stand. She was hailed by a party of suffragettes, for pickets had kept about the jail ever since the famous prisoner was interned there.

The release of Mrs. Pankhurst was the signal for another outburst of suffrage violence in London. Six women, armed with hammers, hatchets and other weapons of that sort, went in an automobile to the residence of Home Secretary Reginald McKenna and smashed nearly all the windows. There was no one at home in the McKenna residence at the time but the servants, the home secretary being absent on a vacation.

Police rushed up and placed the women under arrest, but not until a battle royal had taken place in the street. The woman tried to enter their automobile and flee, but the chauffeur was dragged from the seat by a policeman.

After being detained in cells for a few hours the six women window smashers were arraigned and each was sentenced to two months at hard labor. They protested against the sentence, all declaring they would go on a hunger strike. They were led from the courtroom shouting "votes for women."

At Birmingham militants celebrated the release of Mrs. Pankhurst today by burning the pavilion of the Olton Tennis Club. The damage was about $2,000.

Paderewski Wins Symphony Applause

Jan Paderewski, whose press agent or somebody acting as such has been reporting from various parts of the country as about to break down from nervous prostration as a result of black hand threats, appeared with the Symphony Orchestra yesterday.

He appeared in his usual robust health and the only approach to a breakdown came from the piano, which he pounded in his good old-fashioned way. Paderewski played his own concerto, a work which is brilliant and beautiful in many places and full of the most surprising technical requirements.

As usual, he was wildly applauded. The concerto was admirably played both by the soloist and orchestra. Chadwick's attractive Symphony was upon the bill yesterday for the first time in a long time. This work is now nearly twenty years old. Its themes are pleasant and its construction scholarly.

WIRES BRING CHEER TO WHITE HOUSE FIANCEE

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Congratulations poured in upon Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the President, at the White House today, following the announcement of her engagement to William Gibbs McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury.

The secretary, too, was the recipient of similar congratulations from his colleagues in the official life of Washington.

The fourteenth White House wedding will take place early in June, according to the general belief today here. The actual date, however, will not be set until Mrs. Wilson recovers from her recent fall on a slippery floor at the White House and takes up her duties again.

While the wedding is being awaited Miss Wilson and Secretary McAdoo will be the central figures in the social life of the capital. They will be sought after as the principal guests at every fete and entertainment that takes place during the Spring.

President Wilson's belief that "thirteen" is the lucky number of both himself and his family was recalled in many quarters today because of the fact that the engagement was announced on Friday, the thirteenth. Miss Wilson is understood to be a strong a believer as her father in this number.

This betrothal of wide national interest is the outcome of a real romance. The Secretary, who is fifty years old, has been a frequent attendant at dances here and has been thrown much in contact with Miss Wilson, who is twenty-four. Friends of the couple declared today that rumors of opposition on the part of Mr. McAdoo's children were absolutely without foundation.

No More Troublesome Superfluous Hairs

(The Modern Beauty)

Nothing is quite so annoying to a woman as ugly fuzzy growths on the face, and while the electric needle brings relief, it is no more effective than a simple paste made with powdered delatone and water. This paste is spread on the objectionable hairs for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off. After this treatment the skin should be washed to free it from the remaining delatone and it will be soft, clear and hairless. Be sure, however, that you get the real delatone.

BOY AFTER 16 YEARS PROVES HE'S NO GIRL

Frederick Melanson, a sixteen-year-old Cambridge boy, has finally succeeded in convincing the Cambridge authorities that he IS a boy, and not a girl as he has been listed on the books for sixteen years. The red tape of the Cambridge city clerk's office is badly snarled, but Frederick has proved his point. It happened like this:

Melanson wanted to go to work. To do so, he needed a birth certificate. He went from his home at No. 54 Walden street to the city clerk's office, and an assistant approached. Here is the conversation:

Frederick: I want to get my birth certificate.

Assistant City Clerk: Name? Year? Parents?

Frederick: Frederick Melanson, April 30, 1898.

A. C. C.: (Searches files) Nothing doing. Only Melanson that year is a girl, born to J. A. and Bertha Melanson.

Frederick: That's I.

A. C. C.: Prove it. Get the doctor.

Frederick: I don't have to prove it. I admit it.

A. C. C.: Don't get fresh, now.

Frederick departs, consults with his mother, goes to Dr. Lancaster of No. 26 Williams street, and returns in triumph. The doctor explains:

"All a mistake. He's a boy, right enough. I remember perfectly the day he was born. Yes. Yes. Yes." This last to questions as the clerk filled out a new birth certificate. The doctor took oath to it and departed.

Then the clerk pointed out that it gave Frederick's birth as 1899 instead of 1898. And today he brought the doctor back and so eventually convinced the authorities that he is "Frederick Melanson, boy, born April 30, 1898." So there!

WOMAN SLAIN IN FALL RIVER ON WAY TO WORK

FALL RIVER, March 14.—The decapitated body of a woman was found in bed in a house at No. 176 Spring street here early today.

The woman has not been positively identified, but is thought to be either the wife or the housekeeper of Arthur Roskevitch.

Roskevitch returned home yesterday from serving a term in the House of Correction. He was seen at the house. This morning he had disappeared.

The woman's body was found in bed. Apparently the murder was committed about 3 o'clock this morning. The head was practically severed. It is believed an axe was used by her assailant, and that she was killed in her sleep.

The woman's body was discovered about 7:45 this morning by other people living in the house and in an inconceivably short time the whole neighborhood was aroused.

A heavy police detachment was rushed to the scene, and in fifteen minutes after the discovery, the police dragnet had been spread all over the city for Roskevitch. There was no charge against him; but the police wished him to account for his time from his arrival in Fall River till the woman's body was discovered.

The murder was of such a character as to arouse a storm of indignation, and the police were at first alarmed for fear if they arrested Roskevitch the crowd might attempt violence.

An hour's search had failed to locate the man.

MARLBOROUGH DUCHESS TALKS OF MILITANCY

LONDON, March 14.—Breaking her rule never to be interviewed, the Duchess of Marlborough, who was Consuelo Vanderbilt, expressed to the AMERICAN correspondent today her opinion of the effect—or lack of it—the mutilation of the Velasquez Venus in the National Gallery will have on the cause of woman suffrage.

"I break my rule because I appreciate the tremendous help Hearst's newspapers have given to American women in their peaceful struggle to gain their rights," the Duchess explained. "I disagree altogether with the sentiments ascribed to American suffrage leaders in cables to the London newspapers.

"Far from setting back the cause, the unfortunate act of an insane woman will have absolutely no effect here or elsewhere.

"For, presently, intelligent people will inquire into the cause of her insanity and will realize the truth. She was driven insane by the stupid, brutal, unseeing conduct of men in authority.

"We believe their methods to be unavailing, but we dispute the suggestion that any methods can in any way injure the cause."

JOHN L. MEETS JOHN A. AND SAYS "HUH!"

Question:

What did John L. of the Sullivans say to John A. of the Sullivans?

John L., the "ex-champ," came in from his Abington farm to Mayor Curley's office. Felicitations were exchanged. John A. Sullivan, former champ of the Fin. Com., now Corporation Counsel, came in.

"Meet another one of the Sullivans, John L.," said the Mayor to his head lawyer.

John A.: "Glad to know you."

John L.: "What Sullivan are you? John A.?"

John A.: "I am."

John L.: "Huh, are YOU in here now?"

Then John L. drew John A. into a side room. The two Sullivans conversed closely. City Hall has been guessing ever since what the "L." said to the "A."

DEMOCRATS AT STATE HOUSE FIRMLY OPPOSE TOLLS REPEAL PLAN

The vote of 91 to 105 by which the Massachusetts House of Representatives rejected the William F. Doyle resolutions, protesting against a repeal of the law making the Panama Canal "free" to American coastwise vessels, was a vote of lack of confidence in the administration at Washington on the part of the Massachusetts Democrats.

Two thirds of the Democrats voting are on record in a roll call against the plan of President Wilson to exact a toll from American vessels.

The Doyle resolutions provided:

That the House of Representatives of Massachusetts hereby protests against the attempt to repeal any provisions of law which exempt American coastwise vessels from the payment of any toll charges for passage through the Panama Canal.

On the question of adopting this resolution the 103 Democrats of the House divided:

Favoring a Canal free to American coastwise shipping—59.

Standing by the treaty with England (as interpreted by the President and his advisers)—29.

Absent or not voting—15.

FIGHT THE RESOLUTIONS.

These are the twenty-nine Massachusetts Representatives (Democrats) who stand by President Wilson and the Treaty with Great Britain:

Barry of Agawam, Boffish of Wareham, Buckley of Chicopee, Burdick of Adams, Carbary of Milford, Cobb of Clinton, Collins of North Adams, Conroy of Cambridge, Cuddy of Lawrence, Dailey of Fitchburg, Doherty of Fall River, Ennis of Williamstown, Hall of Pittsfield, Harlow of Easton, Harrington of Fall River, Hickey of Boston, Lawler of Boston, Le Gro of Palmer, Lydon of Boston, Mahoney of Cambridge, Mitchell of Springfield, James J. Murphy of Boston, McGaughey of Braintree, McGlue of Lynn, McManus of Boston, Ogden of Fall River, Roy of Sutton, Reilly of Boston, and W. O. Souther, Jr., of Cohasset—29.

The above-named twenty-nine Democrats, assisted by sixty-six Republicans, seven Progressives, one Socialist, and two Representatives not clearly classified, killed the resolutions.

With these fifty-nine protesting Democrats there voted twenty-four Republicans and eight Progressives.

The Democrats who thus refused to accept Great Britain's interpretation of the Canal articles in the treaty of 1901 and insisted on a free canal are:

Ahern, Allen, Anderson, Bacigalupo, Brogna, Burke of Cambridge, Burke of Lynn, Carney, Carr of Lawrence, Casey, Chapman of Boston, Cotter, Courtney, Cronin, Cummings of Boston, Curley, Curran, Dacey of Lynn, Donoghue, Donovan, Dowd, Doyle, Flanagan, Flynn, Gilbride, Gilman, Glynn, Greaney, Harrington of Cambridge, Hanrahan, Higgins of Taunton, Kelley of Boston, Jacob T. Kenpe yof Boston, Kiggins of Lowell, Lomasney, Lynch, Madigan of Worcester, Manning, Murphy of Lowell, Murray of Boston, McDonough, McGrath, McHenney, Edward F. McLaughlin, Henry J. McLaughlin, McMorrow, Niland, O'Dowd, Phean, Robert Robinson, Russell, Ryan of Holyoke, Sheahan, David F. Sullivan, Lewis R. Sullivan, M. T. Sullivan, Tague, Tweedie and Wall—53.

The debate was interesting. Representative Niland of East Boston, Democrat, expressed amazement that Democrats could oppose making the Canal free. When he went on to say that there are postoffices still hanging on the plum tree he brought an indignant protest from Burdick of Adams, one of the defenders of the national administration, who, however, did not deny the soft impeachment.

The "sanctity of the Treaty with Great Britain" was emphasized on the Democratic side by Burdick, Lee Harlow of Easton, Henry Mahoney of Cambridge and John F. Doherty of Fall River.

MAKES CONVINCING SPEECH.

George P. Drury of Waltham, Republican, made a convincing speech for the Doyle resolutions, whose Democratic supporters in debate included Mr. Doyle, Mr. Lomasney, Mr. Niland, Democrats; George F. Webster, Progressive; and former Mayor Beck of Chelsea, Republican.

"Two years ago," Representative Doyle said, "the American Congress gave to American vessels the privilege of passing through the Panama Canal free of tolls. It is now proposed to repeal that privilege. I offer these resolutions of protest because I believe the Legislature of Massachusetts should go on record against a repeal."

White of Newton, Republican leader, offered an amendment favoring the granting of a subsidy equal to the amount of the tolls. The amendment was voted down.

George Pearl Webster of Boxford, Progressive leader, championed the resolutions. "I have no hostility towards England," he said, "but I think we have a right to expect and demand that American commerce shall have at least as fair a show as English commerce. And I might add, in passing, that it seems a little strange to me that there should be such a diplomatic disturbance over the death of an English subject while American citizens are murdered, American property is destroyed, and American womanhood is attacked with impunity."

"CANAL IS OURS."

Former Mayor Beck of Chelsea, Republican, said:

"The Panama Canal is ours, Mr. Speaker. It stands as the result of the greatest engineering feat in the history of the world. We made a success of what had broken the back of France. Now that we see the completion of the work, are we going to knock, humbly at the door of Great Britain, hat in hand, to ask whether or not we may let our coastwise vessels through free of charge? Submit the question to the American people and they will vote practically unanimously against the plan of President Wilson."

Representative Doyle said: "I confess Mr. Speaker, that I am not only surprised but amazed at the attitude of some of my Democratic brethren as displayed in what they have had to say here. I am a first year member, Mr. Speaker, and this may be why I do not understand how members can vote in counsel to support these resolutions and then come in here and oppose them.

"Treaties have been discussed here I ask the gentlemen not to forget that there was a Clayton-Bulwer treaty before this Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Great Britain failed to do her part. Fifty-one years later came the other treaty, concerning those provisions of which we are now considering I shall say no more than that one of the most distinguished living sons of this Commonwealth, Henry Cabot Lodge, has publicly declared that if he ever believed that what Great Britain now believes was intended by it he would never have given it his support.

"The treaty does guarantee to all the nations of the world equal treatment. I maintain that this means our guarantee to all OTHER nations to treat all of THEM alike. Great Britain was asking for, remember Great Britain was asking or demanding of us in the treaty that when our Canal was ready Great Britain should not be discriminated against. So we declared that the Canal would be open to all the nations of the earth on equal terms. It is beyond my comprehension that a man should now say that this means 'including the United States.'

"I am proud to take my stand with distinguished Democrats on this question. I was a colleague of the great Speaker of the National House, Champ Clark of Missouri. I stand with that able young statesman from Alabama, Oscar W. Underwood. stand, Mr. Speaker, with the platform sent to the American people in the Summer of 1912 from the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore—a solemn contract, not with Great Britain, but between the Democratic party and the American people—declaring for a free canal to American coastwise vessels.

DRURY AGAINST REPEAL.

George P. Drury of Waltham, Republican, said: "This is a serious matter, and it does concern Massachusetts. It affects coastwise shipping. It is of great moment to the manufacturers and all the shippers of Massachusetts because it touches the rates they must pay in future to railroads or ship owners for everything we send to other sections of our country.

"I want to say that I have here a copy of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and that it provides in substance that there shall be no discrimination by the United States against any nation.

Mr. Speaker, under laws which existed then and which exist now, no foreign nation is permitted to share in American coastwise shipping. How can there be any inequality, and discrimination, in exempting our own coastwise vessels—to which the United States is under no obligation to any other nation—from Panama Canal tolls? I am clearly of the opinion that the terms of this treaty are not violated by the no-tolls law which Washington now appears disposed to repeal."

PANAMA CANAL FOR U. S. SHIPS, SAYS O'CONNELL

Daniel T. O'Connell, candidate for Mayor Curley's place in Congress, from the Twelfth District, roundly denounced President Wilson's proposal to repeal the Panama Canal toll exemption clause in a speech before 500 men at the new Fish Pier today.

He declared that the "administration is entirely wrong" He said:

"This country has built the Panama Canal at a cost of upwards of $400,000,000. It will cost us over a million a year to maintain it and guard it properly. The obtainable purpose in constructing it was to foster American shipping. To put our ships under an equal basis with English, German and other shipping interests would in no way help us. In fact it would tend to drive us further off the seas, and I predict that it will be a blow that will practically annihilate our flag from the seas.

"The administration is entirely wrong in this matter. If there is any technicality in the treaty with England, it should be remembered that it was there long before either party ever contemplated the actual building of the canal. Let us change the treaty. We have the privilege of doing this at any time. England would do it in a minute if the position was reversed.

"The development of our shipping is our greatest national duty. To add to its burdens at this time by giving equal advantages to foreign ships is unpatriotic in the highest degree. My voice and vote and energies will be always in favor of giving American ships the right to use their own canal free of tolls. Let us start at once to build up a magnificent merchant marine that will proudly fly the Stars and Stripes in every South American port where today it is seldom or ever seen. The best way to do this is to exempt American ships from paying tolls in passing from ocean to ocean through the Panama Canal.

Glynn Opens Fight to Cut High Cost

ALBANY, N. Y., March 14.—Governor Martin H. Glynn has opened a campaign to lower the cost of living in New York State. He sent to the Legislature a message and a special message of a law to provide for local co-operative markets and also for general auction markets where farm products may be sold by licensed auctioneers.

Mayor to Cut His Brother's Salary

A shakeup in the Collecting Department at City Hall is promised by Mayor Curley. It is said that, among others there, he will cut the salary of his brother, John Curley. Former secretary to Mayor Fitzgerald, Richard F. Field, is a teller due to have his salary slashed.

WOMAN'S STORY MAY SAVE FRANK FROM GALLOWS

ATLANTA, Ga., March 14.—Leo M. Frank, sentenced to die for the killing of little Mary Phagan, may be saved from the gallows by the testimony of Mrs. J. B. Simmons.

Mrs. Simmons today charged Solicitor-General Hugh M. Dorsey, who prosecuted Frank, sought to change the testimony of a prospective witness so that it would appear that the slayer of Leo Frank as the murderer, and failing in this, did not call this informant as a witness in the trial.

Mrs. Simmons, visiting in Atlanta at the time of the Phagan murder, was passing the factory about 3:30 o'clock the afternoon of April 26. She said she heard screams apparently issuing from the basement of the factory, but when she told the solicitor her story, he tried to make her say that it was some time after 3 o'clock, because Leo Frank was not in the pencil factory at 3:30 o'clock.

If Mrs. Simmons was right about the time and actually heard the screams of the girl as the rope was tightening about her neck in the factory basement, then some one else than Frank was guilty of the attack upon the girl and of her death.

Sandy Ferguson Divorced.

SALEM, March 14.—Mrs. Alice B. Ferguson of Gloucester has been granted a divorce from John A. (Sandy) Ferguson, the pugilist, by Judge Hamilton, on the ground of cruel and unnatural treatment. She was also given the custody of their minor child. Sandy was not present, being detained at the Deer Island reformatory.

PART II.

CHAPTER I.

The road where Jose stopped the stage and warned Bob that Sanchez band was afoot after his gold interested the spectator. The road was the only entrance, the only exit to the plateau, save a steep declivity, filling paths down a steep declivity over brush and raw rock to the level of the plain below.

Jose and Bob (we put Jose first because he was guide and master now) took the risk of the descent. They had barely a three minute start of the bandits, and the gold was heavy on Bob. But they slid and ran a thousand yards down the pathless cliff, clutching at brier and stone until they came to a narrow ledge that belted the mid-heights.

The ledge ran west to view from above, and below was a sheer drop of two thousand feet. They had to push their way along it until they could reach the brush again.

Jose was cunning picturesquely as he lead the way.

Shots suddenly sputtered from the cliff top over them.

"Make quick!" commanded Jose. He glided along the foot-wide ridge like a snake. Bob followed.

The shots kept on chugging into the rocks below, and swishing through the underbrush above.

They reached the end of the ledge. It led into a path sheltered by fallen tree trunks and bushes. Jose plunged into the shelter, then turned suddenly and stopped.

He had heard the crack of the dry branches as Bob's body rolled off the lip of the ledge.

Without an instant's hesitation, he dived after the body. He caught it. His left hand found dirt and anchored him. Bleeding from face and arms and bruised of body he picked his master up and started on down.

They were out of sight of the rifles now, but the voices of the pursuing bandits could be plainly heard. They were coming nearer and nearer.

"Better drop me, boy, and run; I'm no good; the gold doesn't matter," gasped Bob.

"Damn soon not," replied Jose.

In a thicket denser than the rest he laid down his precious burden. With flying fingers he unlaced Bob's shoes and pulled them off. He tore his own spring footwear away and put on the shoes of his master.

"I come back," he said, and vanished into the underbrush. Bob's last conscious thought was gudspeed to the brave fellow who was risking his life for him.

Jose was careful to conceal himself now, but not careful to conceal his footprints. He dug the unaccustomed boots deep into the sand. He reeled, and plunged and slid down the cliff until he reached the desert level. There he began to skirt the cliff.

Now and then shots pattered about him. The bandits were coming nearer and nearer. He was becoming exhausted. When he lunged finally into a small hole he fell and lay there panting, helpless.

The bandits came up. Black Sanches stooped over the prostrate man.

Thundering curses, picturesque, broke-hearted, came from his lips, and were taken up by his men.

"Not a thing on him; he threw the stuff away," snorted one.

"Threw nothing; look at them shoes," said Sanchez. The gold's on the other man. He threw the other man away and took his shoes. Hang him!"

This was not a curse; it was a command.

Jose was dragged down the path to the main road where the only trees grew.

"Never mind; just tie him up and take a few shots at his dirty heart —if he don't tell where Melville is," ordered Sanches.

"Where's Bob?" they asked Jose as they tied him to a tree. Say quick; get shot!"

"Get shot," said Jose.

But around a bend of the road there sounded unexpectedly the beat of hoofs. And an instant later wheeled into view Ramona Ferrera, the rich planter, miner and magistrate, with his body guard.

Jose, silent until now, resigned to death, let out a sudden yell. One spiteful shot blazed at him, but the bandits scurried for cover like vultures scared.

Senor Ferrera with his own hands cut Jose's bonds. The servant was trying to tell them something, but they could not understand before he fainted.

The poor Mexican lay on one of the great beds of the Ferrera villa when Bob was brought in. Bob had been picked up by a party of prospectors who heard his groans. The gold was safe.

Carmen Ferrera parted her nursing art in the middle and gave one share to the master, one to Jose.

But Jose's wound healed very slowly, and when he was strong enough to walk, Bob was far on his way to the East, and to Fortune.

CHAPTER II.

Jose became the gardener at Cinquilla, the wonderful Ferrera estate. From the lore of bleak, hard metal, he turned to the lore of flowers.

"Are they not beautiful, Jose?" cried Carmen as she moved among the blossoms.

"When you here, yes; when you not here, no," said Jose.

She looked at him in amazement. For the first time she saw the mighty force of his majestic features—the soul behind the glowing eyes.

"What do you mean—that flowers are not beautiful, Jose?" she asked, a little petulantly, because she was blushing at his blunt compliment.

"No, senorita. But rock live; flower die."

She could not resist another question: "Then why are the flowers beautiful when—well, when I am here?"

"You a flower that don't die," said Jose.

With a ripple of laughter she ran to the house. But, though she did not know it now, the heart of the little "Princess of Cinquira" had been captured by the delicate impudence of the man who had risked his life to save Bob Melville.

About once a month a letter came to Jose from Melville. Bob wrote as if his servant was a college chum, brother, business partner and fighting comrade combined. When Carmen read the letters to him, Jose accepted the attitude as a matter of course.

"Dam good man," he said succinctly, and was amazed that she should be shocked.

At night he studied the little mine on the mountainside. But there was no trouble. By day he attended his flowers.

CHAPTER III.

Bob returned.

There were no blue jumpers nor "leathers" in his make-up now. He was a trim epitome of the up-to-date New York business man.

But the first place he made for after getting off the train was the little hotel bar.

"Everything on me," he said.

There was a clamor of welcome, and his two years' right hand man was entirely out of commission when he made his way to the Ferrera home.

Carmen, from an upper window, saw Jose meet Bob. She saw the giant young man-servant fall down at his former master from his horse. She saw them arm in arm, up the walk. Jose's great figure towering over Bob's, his fine head alert with interest, his eyes gleaming.

Jose was listening to Bob's story of the success of his venture. The mine would be opened within two months with unlimited backing.

"And you are going East with me," said Bob.

"To Red Cap—yes," said Jose.

"No, way back East—to school. "I'm going to made a mining engineer of you. You always were in love with the rocks, Jose. Will you come?"

"You say—I do," said Jose.

CHAPTER V.

Melville was a little bewildered when he proposed to Carmen Ferrera. He had cherished her memory throughout the period of his absence.

He had felt no right to her love; but when she told him, gently but frankly, that she loved another man, he was puzzled. There were few other men with whom Carmen might fall in love around Red Cap.

But he bravely put his sorrow down and drove away with Jose one April morning for the great East again.

Jose he left at a little preparatory school in Western Pennsylvania. He visited him once each month, and was amazed at his progress. The primitive mind—if any mind is ever primitive—responded to the sunlight of learning with the impulse of a flood tide toward high shores.

Within a year Jose was admitted under special examination to the mining school of a college. Within two months after that, professors were hovering over his laboratory apparatus watching his experiments.

"I got," said Jose to Bob on one of his visits.

They both laughed at his reversion to the old brevity of expression.

"I mean I've got a new way of hardening steel," declared Jose. "And there's a check to show for it; and you did it, Mr. Melville. Damn good man."

They laughed again like chums together.

Jose had actually received from a corporation a retaining check on his process.

"Pay dirt," said Bob. "I knew you'd do it."

CHAPTER VI.

Jose hastened West. He was rich now. He knelt at the feet of little Carmen and dared to speak his love.

"And why didn't you say so before you left, stupid?" she demanded.

"I was afraid to be too brave."

They wrote that night to Bob Melville, that is, Carmen wrote.

"I know you will be glad to hear that Jose and I are to be married. He is the man I told you of. I know you will forgive me for not telling you his name when he was last visiting out to prove how good and great and fine he is. Will you come to the wedding?"

Through a dim mist, Bob Melville read the letter in his New York office. He sat for a long time with his head bowed upon his hand. A picture as flashing through his faint vision of a rumbling creaking stage laden with ore, and he rider, who dragged him from it and put his gold in his shirt and pulled him into the bush; of a man who when he was lost, starving out to prove how good and great and fine he is. Will you come to the wedding?"

A picture as flashing through his faint vision of a rumbling creaking stage laden with ore, and he rider, who dragged him from it and put his gold in his shirt and pulled him into the bush; of a man who had toiled through the early, hard, hungry fight of his prospecting days, who asked his clerk to get a ticket for Red Cap. For, by the token of his success, the railroad had gone to Red Cap.

They met him at the gate—Carmen and Jose.

Jose held the bridle and rested him down in the way of old. Arm in arm they walked—all three—up the drive to Cinquilla.

"And what do you think of him, Mr. Melville? Is he not pure gold?" asked Carmen.

"Damn good man," replied Melville, laughing away the load upon his heart.

Robert Edeson Gives Daughter a Dansant

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edeson gave a "bebe dansant" at a Back Bay hotel for their daughter, Roberta Edeson, who is three and a half. NEWS OF THE AUTOMOBILE SHOW

By J. C. KERRIBON.

This, the last day of the motor show, finds everyone keyed up to concert pitch to do his utmost to create records during the few remaining hours. Dealers and salesmen are determined to close up all the orders possible today, and that the majority will have an opportunity so to do was shown by the attendance. This included many who have been seen at the show throughout the week and who evidently reserved their decision until the final moment.

One thing which has made an impression is the hold the cyclecar seems to have gained upon the local public.

It is at Boston, as at no other show in the country, where the cars exhibited are sold direct to their owners. Many will await the closing hour in order to drive their cars home this evening.

* * *

One of the busiest booths at the show is that of Connell & McKone, distributors of the Overland car in this section.

* * *

The Premier booth, at which is exhibited the Weidely motor, is always a centre of attraction.

* * *

The Buick display includes a small out-of-the-ordinary roadster, a passenger touring car, a big four roadster, a four-cylinder coupe and a six-cylinder touring car.

* * *

The musically inclined visitors to the show are displaying a great deal of interest in the Autophano shown by Charles S. Norris.

* * *

Many inquiries were made at the show as to how the Car-Nation, the latest creation of the American Voiturette Company, has acquired its name. Manager W. S. Doan, the local distributor, explains that as the big-car creation of this company, the Keeton, had often been termed the American Beauty by its flower-loving owners, it was thought that Carnation would not be a bad name for the smaller car.

* * *

On the new Lozier four, the body is of flexible capacity, five or seven passengers. The two extra seats, when not in use, can be folded neatly into the back of the front seat.

* * *

Typical of the speed class is the 1914 model of the Marion Bobcat, mounted on both four and six cylinder chassis. The whole car gives an impression of grace, combined with rakishness.

* * *

Manager W. C. Sills, distributor of the Chevrolet in New England, is kept busy explaining the merits of this popular little car and taking care of orders.

* * *

Prominent among the cars is the guaranteed 50-horsepower Moline-Knight, product of the Moline Automobile Company, one of the oldest makers of motor cars.

* * *

In addition to the busy staff of the Donovan Motor Car Company, Boston Studebaker distributors, it is noticeable that the Studebaker space is always the scene of activity on the part of New England dealers.

* * *

Four forward speeds, a feature of construction brought out in the first Lozier car in 1904, is again incorporated in the new Lozier four.

* * *

To emphasize the general excellence and dependability of their cars, small or large, the attention of visitors to the Case booth is being called to the character of the Case 25. In its equipment so vital an item as that of carburetion, has received the same attention in this car as in the larger and more expensive types.

* * *

Branch Manager Spiegelberg of the Metz Company has been busy interviewing agents and has booked a number of orders. The Glidden trophy, the Minneapolis News trophy and the loving cup presented by Waltham citizens to President Metz make a formidable array of plate.

* * *

A welcome visitor to the show was "Pop" Lowe, one of the ten men who, thirteen years ago, started the pioneer movement which has resulted in the establishment of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association and the Boston Automobile Show.

* * *

M. F. Chase, of Stutz car fame, also has the Mers cyclecar under his wing.

* * *

It looks like the old days of Charles River Park and Waltham to see so many of the old bicycle riders at the show. With "The Spud" Ed Spooner and "Doc" Percival about it brings back the days of the speed kings.

* * *

W. D. Paine, eastern supervisor for the Maxwell Company, is a great booster for the show.

* * *

Tom McCarthy, scout for the Braves and inventor of the "trap ball" in baseball, was a visitor at the show.

* * *

E. Philip Merrill, lecturer on the Cadillac chassis, thinks he has talked to more people on the stage in the Main Hall than he ever addressed before in the same space of time.

* * *

A number of visitors to the show are mystified as to how all the pleasure vehicles can be taken from Mechanics building and the motor trucks installed in three days. Manager Chester I. Campbell has looked after this detail and Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock the trucks will be in place and the Commercial Motor Vehicle Show will be open to the public.

Detroit Beauty Doctor Gives Simple Recipe to Darken Gray Hair and Promote Its Growth.

Miss Alice Whitney, a well-known beauty doctor of Detroit, Mich., recently gave out the following statement: "Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, promote its growth and make it soft and glossy. Mix a pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ½ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray haired person look twenty years younger. Some of the loot recovered, according to the police, had been stolen from the residence of C. J. Corcoran on Jackson street and from other houses in that vicinity.

SOME OF THE BOSTON GIRL EMPLOYES WHO LOSE SAVINGS IN CRASH OF HENRY SIEGEL'S ENTERPRISES

SIEGEL EMPLOYES REJECT TRUCE OFFER; TO PUSH INQUIRY

New disclosures of the methods by which Henry Siegel got back the wages he paid his employes, and sunk this money in his stores, came today in New York and Boston from the statements of employes who have lost all they had through the failure of the Siegel bank.

Siegel and Frank Vogel are under indictment in New York on three charges; but the depositors have been offered a $450,000 settlement if they will urge District Attorney Whitman to drop the prosecution. Mr Whitman, however, rejected this suggestion and declared he would push the case.

Mr. Whitman is trailing among other items the so-called "sick benefit funds." It has been learned that every employe of the Siegel stores was required to sign an agreement allowing the store to assess their wages, the proceeds to go—presumably—to a fund for sick and death benefits.

ASSESSMENT RAISED.

The employes say that at Christmas time, the assessment was raised from two to four per cent., and that Siegel and his associates would then arrange some gigantic charity scheme, assessing his employes on a pro rata plan till the cost of the gifts was made up.

Another charge is that employes, while not actually coerced, were made to feel a "tacit understanding" that the management expected them to deposit in the Siegel bank.

Still another source of income to the store came from the cash register girls. There was one for each department. They were not allowed to total up their own cash, and it is declared that almost every week each cashier found a sum varying from $1 to $2 deducted from her pay envelope for a "cash shortage."

Nearly 2,000 employes—most of them young women and girls—will be thrown out of work when the Siegel stores in New York close tonight.

Many of the girls were entirely dependent upon their positions. If thrown unexpectedly out of work, they planned to fall back on the reserve fund in the Siegel banks; or in illness, upon the sick benefit fund.

Little hope was held out today that any of the money deposited in the Siegel bank would ever be returned, although there was the bare possibility that the depositors might some day get about ten cents on the dollar, with a correspondingly small dividend for the general creditors.

WOMAN CRIES SHE'S ROBBED.

In New York, while the investigation of the employes' sick benefit fund was going on, girl employes appeared on the verge of hysteria. A woman who had $3,000 on deposit in the Fourteenth street store cried out that she had been robbed.

Some of the saleswomen shouted that they would raid the store, while others cried that Siegel and Vogel ought to be made away with. The demonstration lasted half an hour before the depositor was taken from the store and the saleswomen induced to return to their counters.

Believing that many of the women employes may be forced to suffer privations and even want unless they can obtain immediate employment, the New York Girls' Protective League, of which Miss Maud Miner is chairman, is endeavoring to help as many of them as is possible to find work.

B. W. Bloomingdale, chairman of the depositors' protective committee in New York, admits that he does not see in what way the depositors may get back any of their money.

PROTEST BOSTON SALE.

New York depositors held a meeting in a public school. A resolution was adopted protesting against the acceptance of the offer to sell the stock of the Boston store for 51 per cent. of the net cost. This resolution was sent to the receiver of the Boston store today so that it would reach him before the sale is confirmed.

Governor Walsh held a conference with Bank Commissioner August L. Thorndike to discuss the failure of the Siegel bank.

He discovered that under the banking laws of the State Siegel could not be held criminally liable for deposits made prior to the failure, because his company did not have a charter, but instead, received money from depositors in the form of loans, upon which it paid interest. He will recommend new laws to cover similar cases in the future.

FIND FIREMEN 'CRIBBED' TEST IN CAMBRIDGE

The papers in the first examination have been thrown out by the Civil Service Commission and the candidates of appointment as captain and lieutenant in the Cambridge fire department will take another examination in the Cambridge City Hall, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, as a result of alleged fraud on the part of some of the applicants in the initial test.

Following a protest on the part of some of these who took the first examination, members of the commission conducted on investigation and discovered that several who passed with flying colors had secured copies of a similar examination, held in Worcester a short time ago, which they had carefully studied in advance. Many of the questions were the same in both instances and the commission declared the examination void.

The second examination will consist of a new set of questions.

SHERBROOKE'S CRACK SEVEN IN FINAL GAME OF SEASON HERE TONIGHT WITH PILGRIMS

AMATEURS MAY USE BANDAGES IN ALL BOUTS

By RINGSIDE.

IT IS VERY PROBABLE THAT THE boxers in the New England championships at Mechanics' Building, March 24, will be permitted to bandage their hands and wrists, just as their professional brethren are wont to do. According to the vote by writing of the Board of Governors of the Amateur Athletic Union, this method, which has heretofore been frowned on, will now be allowed.

This should help the sport, not only by making the scraps between the youngsters more lively, but also by protecting the muscles and bones of the young chaps' arms. Many a good boxer has been obliged to cut short what promised to be a fine ring career because his hands, weakened by fighting unbandaged, could not stand the punishment.

The rule which was adopted to cover the case reads as follows:

Soft cotton bandages only shall be used and these shall be confined to three or four thicknesses for the protection of the hands or wrists, hard bandages or substances of any kind being prohibited. Bandages are subject to the approval of the referee.

The new order will first go into effect at the annual A. A. U. championships, which open March 26 under the auspices of the New York A. C. The Boston meeting will be the next at which the "wraps" will be used, unless the authorities at New York come to the conclusion that they are harmful. Such a course of procedure is most improbable.

Between Rounds

By RINGSIDE

With the approach of Spring, a flock of boxing clubs has sprung up and about New England and after the most quiet Winter in years, the next few months promise an interesting and active ring season.

The Atlas A. A. at the Arena will of course be the most important of the clubs, but in point of time, the University A. C. of Cambridge will be the first to get going, with Matty Baldwin and George Alger signed up for the night of St. Patrick's Day.

A New club is also to start very shortly in the South End, while Salem, with one club already launched, has given assent to the promotors of a second organization. Both these clubs are amateur affairs, as the wager, who is also police commissioner, objects to the staging of professional talent within the sacred confines of the Witch City.

In New Haven, also, the entering wedge in the form of a permit for an amateur club has been smiled on by Mayor Horrocks, who absolutely opposed to all forms of the glove game.

Numerous other clubs are cropping up here and there and all in all the boxers should be in for a better time of it than has been their lot in New England for many and many a moon.

Things, however, will probably go smoothly enough till the multiplicity of clubs will work more harm than good, present crest notwithstanding. This has been the history of boxing in New England for years, and New Englanders are very strong for tradition and take good care to see that history repeats itself. Especially, it is bringing about of this condition promises to put a few dollars in anebody's pocket.

The battle between Baldwin and Alger at the new Arena next week should be a sizzler and will undoubtedly prove a big drawing card. Baldwin, who has been suffering with bad hand, has completely recovered and is chafing to get in the ring again, while Alger has been hitting a clip that shows him better now than ever before.

The fact that Baldwin concedes the Cambridge mixer a few pounds should help the quality of the bout, because, if Alger had to weigh in himself any, he would not be able to stand off Baldwin. Still anything he has to get the decision. Both boxers are of the same school, having received the best part of their training under the watchful eye of Mee McLean.

Johnny Noonan, one of the best little amateur scrappers in the game, will be a competitor in the amateur bouts of the Quincy Athletic club on the evening of March 16. This clubwhich has done much for amateur athletics south of Dorchester, will give its regulation wrinkles for prizes. Most of the star "pupils" of the fight game will appear in the bouts, which will be a good tryout for the amateur championships in Mechanics Hall later in the month.

Jack Dillon, since admitting that he carried a trifle too much poundage for the welterweight class, has had lenty of work with the middles, and may if he signs up for some of the bouts he plans. George Chip and Willie Lewinsky are two of the fast fellows that Jack is angling to meet.

He is already matched with Jack Dove, Dick Gilbert and K. O. Brown, Chicago all three of whom he defeated within the next two weeks. If he signs with Chip, Lewinsky will be asked to make 158 pounds ringside. This means, while rather low for Dillon, should be no hardship, as the rigorous training he has undergone, with a trio of bouts added for good measure.

Boston Girls Out for Skating Title

Two Boston girls, Miss Teresa Weld and Miss Edith Rotch, both members of the Skaters' Club, have entered for the national figure skating championship which will be held in the new arena at New Haven next Friday and Saturday nights. Miss Weld is considered by many the most proficient figure skater in the city, while Miss Rotch is another young woman of marked proficiency in artistic work upon the ice.

THE RETREAT FROM HOT SPRINGS

By MOYNAHAN.

"Busting 'Em"
By TY COBB

Many fans believe that the fact that I swing three bats before going to the plate to hit is a mark of conceit. It is not. My original purpose in wielding three bats, of course, was to make the single one feel light after I really got up there to hit, but I have found that this sort of exercise strengthens my back and arm muscles, as well. These have developed wonderfully since I took up the scheme.

One day, just before the Detroit club went into its Spring quarters for the preliminary training a couple of years ago, I got to figuring how I could increase my speed and get my legs in good shape to stand up throughout the coming campaign.

It seemed as if I might accomplish something by applying the principle of the three bats to my legs, so I took an old pair of baseball shoes and had a shoemaker push some lead slugs into the soles. These I wore throughout the period spent in the Spring camp, and also all the way North.

They strengthened my legs, and the weakening of the underpinning is the fear of most ball players. The legs generally are first.

Writer Said Cobb Was "Going Back."

With the team was a young newspaper man who was making his first trip to a Southern training camp with a big league club. He was very conscientious about getting his news details, and thought he had made a great discovery in regard to me.

He noticed that I was not beating out the same kind of hits that men on the club, rated to be slower than I, were outfooting to first base. We also had some competition in going around the bases one day, and a couple of "bushers" in camp beat my time.

We got into Indianapolis early one morning and were to play the American Association team that afternoon. I bought all the Detroit papers, and was surprised to see this heading in the one representated by the young man in question:

"Ty Cobb Going Back."

The article went on to tell, in about a column and a half, how I was losing all my speed and, therefore, my value as a base runner. I showed the paper to "Hughie" Jennings, and he only smiled.

"I guess I'll show this bird this afternoon," I told Jennings. "I'll ask the trainer to get out my regular shoes."

"All right, Tyrus," replied Jennings.

The light sprinting shoes I wear when the club is in a championship campaign felt like feathers on my feet after the weighted ones, and it seemed as if I was full of speed that day. Three stolen bases was my record for the afternoon, and the Indianapolis club had a good throwing catcher that year, too.

Why Cobb Had "Slowed Up."

After the game I dug up the young correspondent.

"What do you think of my speed now?" I asked him.

"How did you do it?" said he, surprised. "I thought you were slowing up."

"I was as long as I were lend in my shoes," was my reply. "Now, you've got a good story to send to your paper about how I work up my speed for the season."

But this story has never appeared. I consider the idea of wearing weighted shoes while training a good one, and believe it helps me in my base running.

Base running is one of the most important and yet one of the most neglected parts of a big league ball player's business.

The lack of proper base running ability on a club has kept many a likely team from winning a pennant.

All Sorts of Tricks in Base Running.

In running the bases there are all sorts of tricks to be applied. The baseman is always on the job trying to spring new ones, and a ball player has to think fast to outguess some of the men guarding the sacks. One of the fastest at this is Hal Chase.

When Hal was with the Yankees he could think of more ways to nip a base runner than any other man I have ever seen in baseball. He had one trick he used to pull all the time which resulted in the sudden death of many a base runner. If a man was in the game and the batter hit to the infield, Chase would take the ball as thrown to him by the infielder for the out and then whirl with the speed of lightning and throw it to the bag where the base runner had originally come from. He tried this on me, and it worked several times. It got me guessing.

Then, one day, I was on second when there was a hit to the third baseman. He shot the ball to Chase and I steamed for third base, which I made handily enough, and which I over ran by a good margin on purpose. Chase was watching for this, so I "souped" him along until he shot the ball for the third baseman. I waited until Chase was bringing forward the ball to let it go, and then I let out for home. He saw what I was up to just as he let go of the ball, and he hurried his heave. The throw went bad, the third baseman fumbled it, and I scored. That is half of base running—catching the other side off its balance and pulling the unexpected, as it is half of almost any other branch of baseball.

(Copyright, 1914, by Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Ty Cobb will write another series of articles on big league baseball running in the Boston Sunday American.

IT'S A SAFE BET NOW THAT THE COlonial Leaguers, somewhat Federalish in nature as viewed by the New England circuit ring stars, began to get such minor details as schedules and franchises in working order.

* * *

THE FACT THAT THE RECRUIT PITCH ers are shaping up well at Macon is a source of great pleasure to Joe Billings. If a few of the new crew come through, here's not the least doubt but that they will be in the running right down here October 1.

* * *

JOE IS JUST TIME WHEN ASPIRING ball players put their pictures and histories into all the papers in the big league cities. And even if they don't make good, they have the clippings to hand it on to posterity. However, that is not much consolation to a chap plant it some humdrum of mine away from the centres of civilization for about ten yrs. if the crowds are good.

HOT SPRINGS REPORTED TO HAVE a new lease of life, since he has become a Texan, and is playing for a Democratic at the Dawson baseball camp. Clarke says the big Democratic convention next month is going to put Pittsburgh in.

GRADUATE MANAGER WILCOX OF LEland Stanford University has arranged a series of baseball games with the Seattle baseball team in April. Already Pacific coast baseball records have been signed and several other league teams are invited.

ALREADY THE PANS IN LYNN ARE PREpairing to give a big reception to First Baseman Wilson when the Red Sox come back from the South. If present plans go through a "Wilson Night" will be the opening of the season with shortly.

* * *

THE FACT THAT NOT A FEW BALL players whose names appeared on the rosters of the Federal League clubs last year are not members of the regular organized leagues, the strength of the new circuit may yet be a great as the published lists would indicate.

* * *

BUCK O'BRIEN IS STILL DWELLING TO go to the Federals. Bought he has plenty of opportunity to get big money. Buck figures that if he gets a good start he will eventually come back by fast company. Every confidence in himself is also his reason for not going to Oakland, as he wants to be handy when that opportunity arises to make a quick jump.

* * *

GEORGE BRUCE IS IN HAMMERING THE ball in the Gulf City of Mexico every time he gets a chance. He is still down at the athletic camp in Tampa, Fla. Bruddy is out to make good in a big way and if batting come reports are to be had it looks as if Connie Mack has again landed a promising youngster.

EDDIE HARRISON, ANOTHER EVERETT High School boy, is showing class with the Giants at Marlin, Tex. He is batting and fielding like a big leaguer and is the envy of the other rookies with the club. Eddie is quoted in the Boston AMERICAN supposing roses.

REFEREE HEARD NO CRY OF FOUL BY WOLGAST

"I did not know until after the fight that Wolgast claimed foul. I thought he went down from the two stomach punches and I counted four on him before he got up.

"I was not in a position to see the low punch, if there was one, for that reason. If I had known that Wolgast was lodging a claim of foul I would have stopped the fight then and there and called in a physician to examine him."

By SAM HALL.

CHICAGO, March 14.—The above statement made today by Harry Stout, referee of the sensational glove contest involving Willie Ritchie and Ad Wolgast at Milwaukee, in the presence of Tom Jones and the writer, promises to bring about the greatest mix-up in ring history.

Wolgast went down in the seventh round of the fight, after Ritchie had clubbed him twice in the body with right, and lodged a claim of foul. When he sank to the floor Ritchie was between him and Stout.

Ritchie backed away and Stout walked quickly to Wolgast's side.

Every ringsider was positive that Stout knew the claim of the man was foul and that the referee refused the plea and ordered him to get up and fight. Ad Wolgast did, at any rate.

Jones declares that not only did Wolgast claim a foul but that he (Jones) did also, and shouted from the Wolgast corner loudly enough for the referee to hear him.

The statement of Dr. Morter, member of the Wisconsin boxing commission, made after the fight, that Wolgast was fouled gives Adolph an excellent alibi for the newspaper decision that went against him in the majority of the newspapers.

Hockey Men May Bar Body Check

OTTAWA, Ont., March 14.—Although it may seem somewhat surprising to hockey followers in the United States, an effort is to be made at the next meeting of the National hockey commission to eliminate the body check in hockey. The Ottawa Hockey Club will support this move wholeheartedly, declaring that the teams in the National Hockey Association are killing one another instead of rough work, and that the only way to curb the possibility of fouling is to bar the body check altogether.

Harvard Crew Men Do "Little Eva" Stunt

One inappropriate feature of the Chicago baseball season was that the ground was sprinkled with a bottle of champagne instead of a cup of java.

It is said that Willie Hoppe can make the ivories act as if they were almost human, and yet we refuse to be startled. John McGraw has been doing the same thing for years.

Looking over various reports from California, we find that Ed walsh's arm is a hopeless cripples likewise that it is back in its old-time form. All of which shows the value of special correspondents.

They will not discuss the Federals
With the accent on the cuss.

Up to date we have not attended the auto show, but if the press agent stuff is a great little show; and it is a well known fact that a press agent never prevarications. What, never? Well, hardly ever.

Organized baseball is laughing over Gilmore's declaration of war, but the real fun assembled that of the humble clerk when the boss tells an alleged funny story.

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

MACON, Ga., March 14.—With the close of today's work the Braves will have completed practically two weeks' stay here. The players, with few exceptions, are in fine physical condition.

All hands are full of pep, enthusiasm and confidence, and they all believe they will make a fine showing in the coming championship race.

We have yet to see several of the pitchers work. Crutchers, of whom Stallings heard fine reports last season, has a sore arm, and has not been able to take his turn in the box during the practice games thus far played.

The same can be said of Fred Schmidt, who was ill when he arrived and, while he puts on a uniform, he is in no condition to do any hard work.

RECRUITS SHOWING WELL.

Of course, Otto Hess, the veteran of the squad, is taking things very easy, and Stallings has not asked him to show anything in the pitching line.

Of the recruit pitchers, some are showing splendid form. Corcoran, formerly of Topeka, has created a favorable impression. He pitched a couple of games last season for the Braves and acquitted himself well.

He is almost sure to be retained as a regular, he has plenty of stuff, and a cool head on top of it, and in the two games he was worked he has proved that he is to be relied upon.

Duchenil, the Pittsfield pitcher, although his experience had been limited, has also caught the eyes of the critics and bids fair to develop into a fine pitcher.

Luque, the Cuban, also looks good, but when he really has the goods remains to be seen. None of the regulars are hitting the ball at all well and, until they get their eyes on the ball a little bit more, all the pitchers that face them will look good.

It is in the catching department that Stallings will have his troubles if anything happens to Whaling, on whom he is forced to look as the one to bear the brunt of the backstop department this year.

TEAM SHIFTED ABOUT.

Next to Whaling there is the erratic Hank Gowdy, and the recruit, Fred Tyler, Kenefic and Dick Lewis. It must be confessed that thus far all of these look very weak.

They have not had a chance to catch any of the practice games, as Whaling and Gowdy doing all the work for two teams. Stallings really has a little problem on his hands to provide a suitable catching staff.

John Ganzel, manager of the Rochester team, has departed for his training camp in Anniston, Alabama, taking with him Joe Schultz, the clever utility man, as one of the two players Boston owns Rochester in a deal started last Summer.

Joe looks very promising, and when the year ends he ought to be of true big league calibre. The departure of Schultz and Sweeney necessitated a change in the line-ups of Whaling's and Gowdy's teams. Big Schmidt was put on first, regulars and Hess filled out at first sack for Gowdy's team.

Gilbert was placed in right field in place of Schultz, while on Gowdy's team, Strand, the pitcher, was placed in left field.

GOWDYS EVEN SCORE.

The team headed by Hank Gowdy evened up the score of games by winning the fourth practice contest from the Whalings by the score of 5 to 3.

It was a real ball game. Hitting was sharp, the fielding snappy, and weather good.

George Tyler was a bit off in the box and hit three of the four men that faced him in the third inning. Then, too, Pat Villazon, who succeeded him, found that runners on bases were not conducive to good pitching form, and he immediately became rattled.

The pitchers cut loose in snappy form. Tyler sent them over for, outside of the third, and the Cuban in wonderful form was carving the ball. Against Whaling, Gowdy sent Tommy Luque. Tommy was also in trouble in the third, when he went wild. Then he showed a bully split finger and Stallings ordered him to the bench. Gene Cocrehem was sent to the mound to finish up and the Whalingers gathered two hits but no runs off him.

By JACK CONWAY.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 14.—The Red Sox Yannigans today journeyed to Majestic Park determined to make it three straight victories over the dear old Regulars who are now famed by our old friend Clyde Engle, since Hackenschmidt's first term.

Bill Carrigan's troupe is not bashful in declaring that they are able to defeat the first string club on any of the seven days of the week, and asserted as they worked out that the once chesty regulars will bite the dust again today.

When the series of practice games started, the Regulars thought that they would have things all their own way. Perhaps that is one of the reasons why Bill Carrigan decided to lead the Yannigans. Bill has been dividing his attention between left field and catcher.

His best friend has never accused him of being a Tris Speaker or a Ty Cobb in the outer garden, but he is a scrappy individual and has kept the Yannigans on the jump.

CARRIGAN COACHES RECRUITS.

Carrigan goes behind the bat when a young pitcher is working, in this way he is able to coach the recruit and at the same time get a line on his ability.

When the Regulars were defeated in a six-inning game yesterday by a score of 4 to 3, Capt. Engle claimed that it was impossible for his team to win as he claimed Joe Burns, the best little umpire in Hot Springs, is in league with the Yannigans and gives them all of the "breaks."

Joseph is a kind-hearted old soul and consequently cannot help giving the "kids" the best of close decisions.

"Chief" Carlow, Radloff, Kelly and Zeiser will perform in the box today. Foster and Bedient have not yet done any pitching, but Carrigan says that these two will be able to go to the mound for a few innings by the first of next week.

Ray Collins received his first real workout yesterday. He pitched three innings for the Regulars and showed plenty of "stuff." Collins is in fine condition and is working hard as he realizes that he will have plenty of work to do with "Smoky Joe" Wood out of the game until June.

JOHNSON PUT IN TO PITCH.

Rankin Johnson pitched the last three innings for the Regulars and was hit rather freely by the esteemed Yannigans, who took a liking to his fast, straight ball. Johnson is a big powerful fellow and it looks as though he would be retained by the Red Sox.

"Dutch" Leonard pitched three innings for the Yannigans and the Reds were unable to do anything with his delivery. Leonard's hook ball is working to the Queen's taste and the left-handed batters are powerless before him.

Hugh Fullerton, the well-known baseball writer, has arrived in town from Macon, Ga., where he gave Stallings' band of Braves the once over. Fullerton brought with him the news that President Gilmore of the Federal League and Charles Weeghman, owner of the Chicago outlaw club, are heading for Hot Springs.

They were supposed to arrive here last night, but have not yet put in an appearance. Consequently it looks as though Friend Fullerton has booted one.

FED. CHIEFS ON THE WAY.

President Lannin and Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox were not the least bit disturbed by the threatened invasion of the outlaw chiefs. Carrigan considers the Federal League a joke and says there is not a chance of any of the Red Sox joining the new organization.

Bill believes that if Gilmore and Weeghman are on their way here it is for the purpose of trying to land some of the Pittsburgh and Indianapolis players who have not yet signed.

Red Sox Notes

By JACK CONWAY.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 14.—Olaf Henriksen is the champion pool player of the Red Sox squad. The little fellow is an proficient at manipuating the ivory balls as he is at delivering a fasty hit in a pinch.

HENRIKSEN is almost down to playing weight and should have a good season. It is to be regretted that the Canton boy is unable to play regularly.

WITH Speaker, Lewis and Hooper signed for 1914, it looks as if Henriksen would have to pay the rule of utility outfielder again this year.

THE Red Sox players are still discussing the deeds our old friend Bill Sweeney performed on the billiard table while here. Bill was in a class by himself at this game.

EVERETT SCOTT, the young shortstop who did so well with the St. Paul club of the American Association last year, has been showing the way to the rest of the players on the bowling alleys. George Wilson and Jim Cooney were his latest victims.

BUT then one must not forget that "Scottie" is the lord high mogul of a bowling alley at Bluffton, Indiana, during the Winter months and that he spends a great deal of his time getting "strikes."

SPEAKING of bowling reminds us that the candlepin game, which is so popular in Boston, is not played here. Bottlepins and duckpins are all that are used.

GEORGE WILSON, who is a candidate for first base, is a school teacher at Reading High School when not partining on the diamond. Wilson played for the Lynn club of the New England League last year and batted for .344.

HEINIE WAGNER is taking things easy just now. The Red Sox captain does not believe in rushing his training work. But when the league campaign gets underway Heinie will be there with belle on.

THERE are few brainer ball players in the country than Wagner. He is Carrigan's righthand man and will be a big factor in developing the Red Sox machine.

GEORGE FOSTER'S knee, which bothered him a great deal last year, is in shape again and he expects to have a successful season on the mound.

FOSTER is 5 feet 8½ inches tall and weighs 170 pounds. Regardless of lack of size he is a rattling good hurler.

VEAN GREGG, the Cleveland southpaw, intends to remain here until April 1 when he will join the "Naps." He is practicing with the Red Sox and is giving Carrigan's red hosed warriors some excellent batting practice.

GREGG is one of the many ball players who is praising the Federal League. Vean received several tempting offers from the outlaws which caused the Cleveland owners to boost his salary $2,000.

GREGG, it is said, got $5,000 last year, which would make his salary for this year $7,000. And, believe us, he is worth every cent he receives.

THERE are still a few better left handed pitchers in the country than Gregg. If you doubt this statement please get into communication with any American League ball player.

U. S. Beats England in Pinehurst Golf

PINEHURST, N. C., March 14.—The United States won the international mixed golf foursome here, arranged in honor of Miss Gladys Ravenscroft of England, holder of the woman's national championship in this country. The score was 4 to 2, with one match of the seven halved.

Miss Ravenscroft played with E. A. Johnstone of England, but was unable to win from Parker W. Whittemore of Brookline and Miss William West of Camden, N. J., the match being halved.

Women Tennis Stars in Title Tourney

Miss Katherine E. Force, sister of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, made her first appearance today in the women's indoor championship tennis tournament on the Seventh Regiment Armory courts, New York, when she met Miss Adele Cragin in the first round. In the women's doubles, Miss Force is paired with Miss Gertrude Della Torre of the West Side L. T. C. Miss Force is considered a good, consistent player, and while lacking in brilliancy, is well grounded in the scientific side of the game.

Brown Makes Record in Taking Cue Match

NEW YORK, March 14.—With a splendid run of 104, which is high mark so far in the national amateur billiard tournament, Morris B. Brown of Brooklyn, a former holder of the championship, defeated Eugene L. Milburn of Memphis, Tenn., 400 to 266. The scores:

Brown, 400; average, 10 30-37; high runs, 105, 44, 27.

Milburn, 266; average, 7 14-36; high runs, 45, 34, 21.

MAY 5 FOR EVERS DAY

Boston Ball Fans to Honor Stars

SWEENEY HAS DAY ALSO

Boston is going to have an Evers Day—a day on which the local fans can pay tribute to the Braves' new star. May 5 has been set aside for the occasion and from the plans already made it will be one of the most successful of its kind ever held. A special committee has been named of leading ball fans to boom the affair.

Not only is Evers to be the big show on a special day for his benefit, but Bill Sweeney of the Cubs will come in for his share of attention from Boston fans Monday, June 15, when Sweeney Day will be observed.

New Boston Boxing Club to Hold Show

The Neptune A. C. will hold an amateur boxing tournament at its rooms, No. 102 Dartmouth street, March 23. In addition to three specials, there will be open classes at 115, 125 and 135 pounds. The tournament has been sanctioned by the N. E. A. A. U. and entries will close March 21, with Eddie Mack, at No. 7 Water street, room 311.

STAR DISTANCE MEN TO ENTER CATHEDRAL RUN

Many of the best runners in New England have signified their intentions of entering the sixth annual ten-mile open handicap cross country run, under the auspices of the Cathedral Young Men's Catholic Association, which will be held on Saturday afternoon, April 11, at 3 o'clock.

Coming as it does, one week before the big B. A. A. marathon, this run will serve as a tryout for those who intend to go after the honors in the Unicorn classic.

It is with this end in view that the committee in charge of the Cathedral run are making special efforts to secure competitors from those clubs in New York and Canada that enter most in the B. A. A. race.

Indications at present point to a field of 100 athletes starting in the Cathedral event.

As in previous years this road race will be over the same course, as follows: Start at club house, Union Park street to Harrison avenue, to Massachusetts avenue, to Columbia road, to Blue Hill avenue, to Morton street and return via the same route.

The run is sanctioned by the N. E. A. A. A. U., and is open to all registered athletes. Nine valuable prizes, in addition to a special prize to the athlete making the best time, will be awarded.

Entry blanks may be obtained by applying at the clubhouse, No. 72 Union Park street, or at any of the municipal gymnasiums. Entries close on Wednesday evening, April 8, and must be sent to the manager, Terence D. Gordon, No. 70 East Newton street, city.

Harvard Five Looks for Win Over Tufts

The second game of the series between the Harvard and Tufts independent basket-ball teams will be played at the Lawrence Light Guards Armory, Medford, this evening. Tufts will go into the game with a slight advantage, as it won from the Crimson five in the first game last week. Harvard, however, was without the services of Sellbach, the sterling centre, around whom is built their attack. He will be in tonight's contest and the Cambridge men are looking forward to a win.

Try to Stop 'Feds' from Building Park

CHICAGO, March 14.—Property owners in the vicinity of Addison avenue and Sheffield avenue have filed a suit for injunction in the Circuit Court asking that the Chicago Federal League baseball team be restrained from building a baseball park on Sheffield avenue between Addison and Waveland avenues.

Pilgrims and I. A. A. to Battle on Ice

At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Boston Arena, it was decided that the Pilgrim A. A.-B. A. A. series should be called off and a Pilgrim-Irish American A. A. series substituted instead.

Keegan Puts Champ Down.

UTICA, N. Y., March 14.—Eugene Tremblay of Montreal, holder of the world's lightweight championship, was defeated by Walter Keegan of Utica, in a wrestling match. Keegan got a fall in two hours and ten minutes, and Tremblay declared himself unable to continue.

SHERBROOKES IN LAST GAME HERE WITH PILGRIMS

McKinnon, rw.	l.w., Mulrennan

Small, g.	g., Arquin

The Pilgrim A. A. will play the Sherbrooke hockey team tonight at the Boston Arena and on account of the speed of both teams it is expected that the game will be one of the fastest of the season.

The Pilgrims are very anxious to tie a defeat on the Canadians even more pronounced than that administered by the Irish-Americans last Thursday.

The local fans will have an opportunity of seeing the four best centremen in the amateur ranks in action tonight. There are no "simon purs" of club hockey in the same class with Mickie Roach, Spider Fynan, Eddie and Brownie Baker.

This is the last appearance of the Sherbrooke boys in this city this season and there will be an exceptionally large crowd out to see the game. The contest will be refereed by Fred Rocque, the Dartmouth hockey coach, and Bovie of Sherbrooke, and will comprise two twenty-five minute periods.

The Thrilling Story of a Girl Who Won Her Fight for Love Against Tremendous Odds

A Vision in Blue Serge

THE Jurvoid Scotts moved within the inner circle. Their home in Fifth avenue was as spacious and as pretentious as the home of a rich New Yorker should be. It had always held its place as the scene of ceremonious hospitality, but this Winter it was enlivened by the presence of young folk.

Jack's return from Harvard had been simultaneous with his sister's completion of her course at a young woman's boarding school. Being but seventeen and not yet arrived at that period of adolescence essential for formal launching into the social swirl, Josephine Scott was enjoying that most delightful hiatus in fashionable girlhood—the time when one shares all the privileges of society without assuming its cares.

In the later Winter or early Spring there would come the inevitable trip across the water, the finishing touches in Berlin, Paris and the Riviera, a Summer at Bar Harbor or Newport, and then this young child of fortune would blossom out as a bona-fide member of the fraternity which toils not, but is arrayed in goldspun. Debutante or no debutante, Josephine didn't lack for attention from the gallants. The Scott millions, or that part of them which would fall to the girl, were in jeopardy through the forthcoming trip to Europe. The prospectors came often and under any pretext, as Jack's friends or hers, or to pave the way to paternal esteem.

HIS PRIDE

Scott surveyed them all with placid but watchful eye. They were mostly youngsters of Jack's age, and so far he had detected nothing to arouse his serious concern. But he was on the lookout. Josephine meant more to her father than his millions. Yet he shared with her mother fond, vague hopes of some prodigious match. There was nothing to thwart these expectations. He knew his daughter was a beautiful girl, bringing from her mother a legacy of name and a fortune which he would triple when the time came.

This man, who in the outer world was the gray wolf, regarding women of a lower strata as his rightful prey or toys, as the case might be, became within the sanctum of his own domicile the guardian mastiff, jealous and zealous of his own progeny. Other men's daughters were one thing; his was another.

The importer was enjoying the quiet of his library before the dinner hour, when Josephine burst in upon him.

"Hello, daddy!" she cried as she came running to him. She pressed glowing cheeks, that motoring in the brisk November air had turned almost to carmine, to his. Strands of her disheveled hair floated across his face. Something of the thrill of her went through him—some alien realization of the exquisiteness of her; the sense that she had passed from childhood, and what she might mean to some man. It was a strange thought—spontaneous but frightening—so that he drew her to him with more than usual ardor in his embrace. Her next words confirmed the truth of his intuition.

"Oh, daddy, I've had a perfectly glorious afternoon! We motored out to the country club, and you can't imagine how grand it was."

A WARNING

"Why," he echoed. "You mean mother"—

"No," she interrupted, "Paul Montgomery and I. It was a young folks' affair, and besides, mother had a meeting of her benevolent society.'

"But you had a chaperon, Joe?" he persisted.

"At the club (course, but not going or coming. Very few of the girls did, and it was just an informal affair . . . a tango tea."

"Dancing?"

"Oh, surely, goosey. That's what it was all about. But the trip was the best part of it. It's simply wonderful in the country now. You ought to get away from that office grind and run over yourself no wand then. There were nearly fifty players on the links today."

She ruffled his hair and pulled his nose in the childish way that so endeared her to him and he stroked her shining, golden tresses. But for all her sweetness and capitery, Scott was troubled.

"Joe," he said softly, "now don't think I'm old fashioned and cranky. I want you to have a good time; just as good a time as any girl in New York, but I don't think it is just exactly the right thing for girls of your age to take twenty-mile runs alone with young men. You might have called Jack up and asked him. I'd rather you would; won't you, dear—after that?"

"Why, dad! Take brother away from his work on his first day in town? Him. He wouldn't have gone if I had asked him."

"Yes, he would. I'd have sent him if I don't approve of it, Joe. I know lots of girls we do, but I don't know

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

New York stocks opened stronger today and closed at a higher level that was recorded at the close on Friday. Americans had been firmer in London, ending irregular in that market, which was tame. Covering continues in New York and to some extent in Boston. The local market had a much better tone all day. Nothing developed at the week-end to affect stocks. Trading was of moderate volume.

The decline in Butte and Superior was attributed to denial of the rumor that a rich strike had been made at the property. American Telephone was in more demand in Boston. It is said that the impairment of Justice insists that New Haven water front property be sold by the road, and that it is in danger of a serious hitch between over that other dissolution matters. That stock weakened on account of such reports.

FINAL PRICE CHANGES.

New York closed firm and among gains were Canadian Pacific ¾, Southern Pacific ½, Missouri Pacific ⅝, Lehigh Valley ½, American Telephone ¾, and United Fruit was unchanged, while Shoe common was ¼ lower. Among mines Granby gained a point. American Woolen preferred was up ¼ and preferred I. American Woolen preferred gained ¼. Old Dominion ¾, and United States Smelting ¾.

NEW YORK BANK STATEMENT.

In brief the New York bank's statement is as follows:

U. S. EXPRESS DISSOLUTION.

The expected has happened and directors of the U. S. Express Company have decided to dissolve the corporation and liquidate, but not make enough profit, if any, in competition with the United States government, which is now engaged in the express business by running a parcel post. This is the first corporation with a history of more than half a century of success and for years it was rumored that Senator Platt of New York, and a man who fought off for years every attempt to establish a parcel post in this country. The dissolution of this company will throw about 5,000 persons out of jobs. It has a payroll totalling $6,000,000 a year. Most of the stock is owned by the late E. H. Harriman estate.

Whether this example will be followed by any other great express companies is a question. It was stated in New York this morning:

"Although heads of the Wells Fargo Company, Adams Express Company and the American Express Company have declared they are not considering liquidation, it is generally felt their stockholders will bring the matter to their attention at their next consideration, as happened in the case of the United States Express."

President Roberts of the United States Express Company does not say that the directors decided to dissolve because of parcel post competition, but states that they were actuated largely by the Interstate Commerce Commission mandate that express rates should be reduced. This order was obeyed about six months ago.

"TIRED OF STALLING."

It is said by a Washington dispatch that Attorney-General McReynolds is weary of the tactics of the New Haven management in regard to dissolution of the system, and that the road's lawyers are "stalling" for time.

"It was hinted," says the dispatch, "that if the New Haven does not soon advance more weighty reasons for a delay in disposing of the Boston and Maine the Department of Justice will file a brief with the Interstate Court, and instead of pursuing its policy of 'hopeful hinting' will fight the case to the last ditch.

At the conference today every phase of the situation was vamped by the attorneys for the railroad, with the exception of selling the stock of the Boston & Maine. This acute question was evaded until it was forced upon them by a threat to immediately appoint a board of trustees to dispose of this stock. Then they waved the matter aside till tomorrow."

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE.

If the State Department of a country should be efficient in proportion to its foreign commerce, then that prestige over by the United States should certainly be directed by more than a platform performer. Commerce that the United States with other countries is enormous. Department of Commerce figures show that for January last the trade balance in favor of this country was about $56,000,000 and for nine seven months ended January, 1914, about $451,000,000. Imports in January are estimated $154,406,000 and exports $204,100,000; total, $358,500,000. For seven months imports are $1,587,800,000 and exports $1,522,100,000.

Order Soft Coal Trust to Dissolve

COLUMBUS, O., March 14.—The special United States District Court, composed of Federal Judges Nappen and Dennison, today handed down a formal decree ordering the dissolution of the Coal Trust.

The Hocking Valley, Chesapeake & Ohio and Toledo & Ohio Central are given sixty days to dispose of their holdings in the Sunday Creek Coal Company. Upon this penalty of having a receiver or commissioner appointed at the end of that period the case is made.

It was ordered that either the stock of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad in the Kanawha & Michigan Railroad be purchased by the Lake Shore at once or the interest of both companies be sold absolutely.

The court annulled the March agreement as to division of freights and reserved the question of reciprocal trackage where the Hocking Valley and Toledo & Ohio Central use each others tracks in running coal cars from Chauncey to Fostoria and back.

"English-Led and English-Ruled;" We Dug the Canal for English Profit, Says Page

Saying silly things has long been one of the chief activities of United States ambassadors to the Court of St. James, and it appears that Mr. Walter H. Page no more than his predecessors has been able to resist the temptation to slop over in the effort to be at one with the British aristocracy.

It does, however, seem to have been a peculiarly inept and indecorous thing for Ambassador Page to assure his British auditors just at this moment that it added greatly to the pleasure of the American people in building the Panama Canal that the British would get the most good out of it. That may be the opinion of the administration; it is not that of the American people.

Of course it is the business of a diplomat to "jolly" the people of the country to which he is accredited, but it is even more his duty to avoid misrepresenting the people of his own land. James Russell Lowell once said that no man could be truly cosmopolitan unless he knew something of his own country. In the same way it would appear that no man can fitly represent his country in foreign lands unless he knows something about its public sentiment.

Mr. Page must certainly know that the feeling he attributes to Americans does not exist. It is a matter of the deepest mortification and regret to all Americans that of the endless procession of ships that will pass through the Panama Canal only a pitiful minority will fly the American flag.

But more! It is a matter not only of mortification and regret, but of indignation and wrath as well, that the administration which Ambassador Page represents is doing all it can to discourage even the few American ship owners who will use the canal, by levying tolls on their ships at British behest.

The ambassador, doubtless, spoke for his chief—though he did not speak for the American people—when he expressed gratification that OUR canal, dug in OUR country, by OUR engineers with OUR money, would yield its greatest profit to Great Britain.

He spoke for his chief again when he expressed pleasure that the American tariff would add to British trade with this country.

He spoke again for his chief when he sneered at the Monroe Doctrine as merely a vague dislike of Americans for European land owning on this continent.

As an exponent abroad of President Wilson's views Ambassador Page is loquacious, but his loquacity is never checked because he so accurately expresses the opinions of his superior.

For example, last November, addressing an English throng at Southampton, he expressed this notable opinion:

"In spite of the great fusion of races and of the great contributions which other nations have made to the one hundred millions of people across the sea, and to her incalculable wealth, THE UNITED STATES IS YET ENGLISH-LED AND ENGLISH-RULED."

This was Woodrow Wilson's opinion expressed in his writings before he became a candidate for President. He suppressed this opinion, prudently, for a time, but has recurred to it in practice while his personal ambassador heralds it forth on British soil.

Unhappily at the moment the Wilson-Page theory is true. We are "English-led" and "English-ruled." We are to be led by English emissaries to the point of violating our pledges and repealing our laws governing our domestic navigation. We are English-ruled to the extent that the British ambassador has more influence at the White House than the voice of the American people, and the demand of the ambassador is enforced upon Congress by the imperial mandate of the President.

According to one London newspaper:

"Mr. Page took it upon himself to say, on his own responsibility, that the President delivered his (Panama) message not merely to please Great Britain, but to express the sentiment and self-respect of our people. The President's voice was the voice of the people. Nevertheless, it added to the pleasure of that voice to know it did please Great Britain."

Surely this is a weak concession on the part of our ambassador to say that the President did not deliver his Panama message "merely to please Great Britain." That should have been a sufficient reason. What more patriotic pleasure could a President find than in haranguing Congress for the gratification of the British Embassy? To say that this gratification is only incidental is to deprive President Wilson of part of his credit for being "English-led and English-ruled."

With the ambassador in London and the President and Secretary of State in Washington finding their greatest joy in helping England to profit by our enterprise, what chance of fair play is there for the American people?

Senator Chamberlain very properly demanded the fullest information as to the ambassador's precise words, and the significance intended. It is true that the pro-British party at Washington is claiming enough votes to pass the bill taxing American coastwise ships using the canal, but it seems rather early for the ambassador to be congratulating the British on their victory.

His speech, however, has its value. It shows the Representatives and Senators just exactly whom they are to benefit by voting for the President's plan. As Ambassador Page so neatly put it, they may be happy "because the British people will make the most out of it."

A vote against the existing free tolls law is a vote to still further entrench Great Britain as mistress of the seas. The repealing bill can only be passed by a Congressional majority, "ENGLISH-LED AND ENGLISH-RULED."

Mr. Bryan to Travel Abroad—Will He Take Yodelers?

We Trust Not. That Which Can Be Endured at Home Is Rather Painful Among Strangers.

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

President Wilson contemplates sending his Secretary of State to Europe to speak on peace, good will and other things.

Mr. Wilson seems to have a fondness for sending Mr. Bryan AWAY.

Recently he sent him three thousand miles—as far as he could go on land. Now it is said he will send him three thousand miles away by water. Very interesting.

But the nation will ask this question:

Will Mr. Bryan be provided with sufficient money to pay his expenses—or will he find it necessary to lecture, with yodelers or sword-swallowers?

Throughout one Summer the Secretary of State has been up on exhibition as an insufficiently paid gentleman, compelled to make a show of himself and of his office for extra profit. We have been able to endure this period, for it is possible to endure things in the bosom of the family.

But it is painful when the queer member of the family escapes and does the queer things in public.

If Mr. Bryan really is to escape and go to Europe we urge Mr. Wilson, and Congress, and rich men who take pride in their country TO MAKE SURE THAT MR. BRYAN HAS PLENTY OF MONEY FOR THE TRIP. We know that his salary is not enough for him to live on, for he has told us so.

There is a reason to fear that the traveling expenses allowed by the government may not be enough for him to TRAVEL on.

Positive arrangements should be made to provide the esteemed Secretary with plenty of traveling money, and positive arrangements should be made to prevent his frequenting, as an added attraction, the Foire Aux Pains d'Epics in Paris, for instance, or similar enterprises in other cities.

You can stand your Secretary of State earning money as a public show in a tent at home, with the yodelers following him and a vaudeville turn preceding him.

But it would be rather humiliating for the nation that sent Benjamin Franklin abroad to send Mr. Bryan with his "attractions" added as a sample of MODERN AMERICA.

The sending of Mr. Bryan AWAY is not such a bad idea. But will Congress please give him plenty of MONEY?

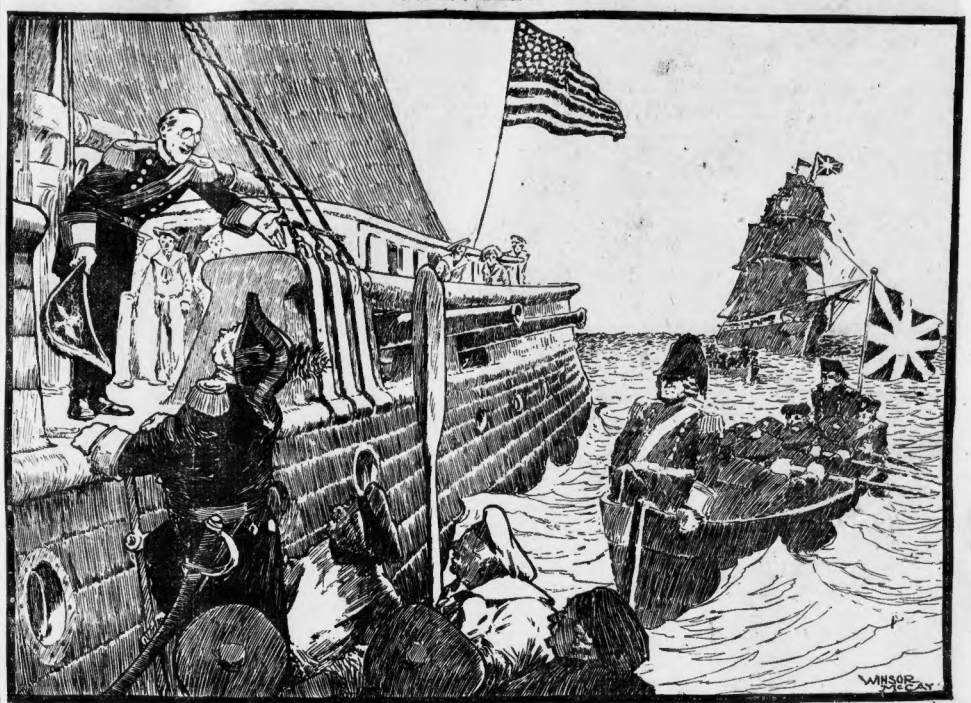
Admiral Wilson Invites the English to Exercise "the Right of Search" and Interference in American Affairs

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service



The primary cause of the War of 1812 was "the right of search" of American ships and the impressment of American seamen. Even American warships were so searched by the British and seamen alleged to be of English birth taken off. The United States decided to fight rather than to submit.

Good Cheer

By ELBERT HUBBARD

The Faults of our brothers we will write on the sands;
Their virtues on the tablets of love and memory.

I AM not a liner, but if I ever line the liners I will begin with the Elks.

Without any special written code or creed, the Elks stand for a certain standard of intellect and ethics. The man with an elk's tooth on his watch chain, or the antlers in his buttonhole, has no quarrel with the world. He accepts life and finds it good.

The true Elk does not condemn, disparage, nor rip reputations up the back.

Realising his own limitations, he is lenient in his judgments toward those who have been tempted by fate beyond their power to resist. This quality of mercy, I have noticed, is strongly implanted in the Elk nature.

The Elk never weeps over his own troubles, but for the stricken souls of earth his tears of pity are near the surface. He loves children, respects old age, and so far as I have seen doesn't incline especially toward indifference to feminine charms.

I believe this will hold: no little apology for a man ever joined the Elks—he would not feel at home among them. To be an Elk you must have faith in other men, faith in yourself, and faith in the universe.

The Elks all look alike, and are all of one age. Just what that age is I have not made out, but it lies somewhere between thirty and fifty. No Elk ever is over fifty, no matter how long he has lived, and none weigh over two hundred pounds. They all have the joyous, boyish, bubbling heart of youth and no whiskers.

I never saw an Elk who was very rich, excepting in kindness and good-cheer. But they all have all the money they need, even if not all they want.

The Elk is not troubled about saving his soul—in fact he is not troubled about anything. Perhaps that is one distinguishing feature—he does not worry, nor shake the red rag of wordy warfare. He believes that everything is all right—or nearly so—and that his task is to do his work, and not to bother other folks any more than he has to.

You cannot down a man who can laugh at himself. The Elk stays right in the game; I never heard of one retiring from business.

There seems to be little danger that the Elks' fraternity will evolve into a religion. He knows that truth is a point of view, that all is relative, that nothing is final nor absolute, nor can it be in a world where nothing is permanent but change.

So the Elk's religion is Now and Here; to partake of all good things in moderation; to give out love and kindness because these things come back; and to supply a scrap only to the man who repeatedly asks for it, and will accept nothing else—this as a matter of accommodation.

To do good is the first prong in an Elk's creed. And he realises, being wise, that the best way to benefit yourself is to benefit others.

Science Problems

By EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN

Q.—"PLEASE define the word color scientifically."

A.—I cannot. I do not know what color is.

Q.—Why do the days lengthen and shorten more one day than another, and some days not changed?

A.—From two causes—the orbit of the earth around the sun is not a circle, but an ellipse. Then the earth must travel faster at times than at others, and the orbit of the earth is inclined to the equator by 23½ degrees. Then equal lengths of degrees measured on the equator correspond each day to unequal lengths by degrees on the orbit of the earth. The two combined constitute the equation of time.

This caused my grandfather to open the south door and watch the shadow of one side on the floor. Then he added or subtracted the equation and set the old-fashioned clock with wheels of wood. That is, he did not receive absolute time by wireless in those days. But then those complexities cannot be cleared in words; too complicated drawings would be required to explain each point.

The Grand Old Man of Portugal

By REV. T. B. GREGORY

IT was one hundred and thirty-two years ago that Portugal's "Grand Old Man," Sebastian Joseph de Carvalho, Marquis of Pombal, closed his eyes in death.

Carvalho's name is by all odds the greatest in the annals of the Portuguese nation. He was not only the most illustrious statesman that had ever been produced by his own country, but was head and shoulders above all the statesmen of his time.

The son of a wealthy country gentleman, Carvalho, after graduating with high honors at the University of Coimbra, received, in 1739, his first public appointment and was sent as Minister to London. With an intellect of the highest order and along with it a whole lot of common sense, it did not take him very long to discover that English thought and Portuguese thought were radically different, with the advantages largely in favor of England; and when he returned to his native land, thoroughly indoctrinated with English rationalism, he shook up the dry bones as they had never been shaken before.

The King, Joseph I., gave him a free hand, and with the ardor of the old Crusader and the courage of a lion, he began the house-cleaning that astonished the nation and the whole continent.

He created a new agriculture, a new system of internal administration, a new method of education, and a new foreign policy. Arrayed against him were the mightiest forces of the world, but his clear brain and brave resolve were proof against all wiles and threats, and he kept on his way like the sun through the heavens.

From 1750 to 1777 Carvalho was virtually King of Portugal, and for the entire period of twenty-seven years he worked like a Trojan for the uplift of his country. All powerful, he did not abuse his power, but used it to introduce the most thorough reforms in every department of government and life. At times he ruled with an iron hand, but down underneath the despotism lay the honest desire for the common weal and the all round emancipation of man's bodies and minds from the old-time oppressions.

In 1777 King Joseph was gathered to his fathers, to be succeeded by the half-witted Donna Maria, who immediately banished Carvalho, ordering him never again to come "within twenty leagues of the Court." The great man bowed and retired, leaving Portugal to begin the descent to the humiliating depths from which she is just now beginning the second time to rise. Will she find a second Sebastian Joseph de Carvalho?
